VOL. 43. VICTORIA, B. C., SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1913 NO. 16

SAILORS AND MARINES WRECK SEATTLE HEADQUARTERS OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD AND SOCIALISTIC PARTY

Incited by Speech of Josephus Daniels, Secretary of United States Navy, Men Destroy Furniture in Several Rooms, Burn Papers and Red Flag With the Approval of Large Crowds of People

CIVILIANS LED WRECKERS' PARTY WHILE POLICE AND CIVILIANS DID NOT INTERFERE

Seattle, July 19.—Incited by a speech delivered by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and believing their course justified by their chief, a mob of sailors and marines attached to the Pacific reserve fleet, now in attendance at the celebration of Seattle's third Potlatch, swooped down upon the Socialist and I. W. W. headquarters last night and caused damage amounting to thousands of dollars.

To the charge that Secretary Daniels was responsible for the outbreak, the secretary modestly admitted that his speech, filled with patriotism and flag-waving, was a repetition of one that he had delivered months ago at Erie, Pa. The secretary further stated that he was not aware that the I. W. W. had gained a foothold in Seattle.

It is admitted generally that a band of civilians led the sailors in their maurading expedition, the civilians making much of the noise and the sailors doing the work of destruction while policemen and firemen, apparently amused at the situation, stood idly by while alarm after alarm was rung in at fire headquarters.

Estimates of Damage.

The downtown headquarters and the uptown meeting place of the I. W. W. and the headquarters of the two branches of the Socialist party, the radicals in Fifth avenue, near Virginia street, and the moderates at Seventh avenue and Olive street, were wrecked.

Socialist leaders estimated that they suffered the heaviest loss, $1,000 in books and furniture having been destroyed at the Fifth avenue headquarters, and while the loss at the Olive street place is placed at $800, the I. W. W. estimated their loss at $1,000. Aside from broken windows no damage was done to the buildings. The damage to the Salvation Army meeting place in Washington street, which was broken into by mistake, was not great.

During the riot a crowd of rioters broke into the Olive street meeting place of the I. W. W. and threw the furniture out of the window into a vacant lot and then burned it. An I. W. W. red flag and the charter taken from the room were burned separately, while the crowd yelled its approval. Millard Price, a Socialist leader whose news-stand was wrecked early in the night, said the loss to the Socialists would be about $2,000.

"The Socialist party is a national political party and has nothing to do with the red flag," said Mr. Price. "I think the riot resulted from the way Secretary Daniel's speech was reported by one of the newspapers. The sailors were incited to violence and once they started they did not recognize the difference between a national political party like the Socialists and an unorganized crowd like the I. W. W."

Only One Injured.

The sailors who led the mob did not appear to be in a very ugly mood and no one was seriously injured, although several men were slightly hurt in fist fights during the rioting.

Only one man required treatment at the city hospital. W. J. P. Bridge, who said he belonged to the I. W. W., walked into the hospital early to-day and asked for treatment for a broken nose, which he said he sustained during a fight with the sailors in Washington street, where they made a bonfire of the furniture in the I. W. W. headquarters.

The only man arrested by the police as a result of the rioting was Walter Thurber, an I. W. W. agitator, who was taken to police headquarters early to-day after he had knocked down a fire department captain who had carelessly displayed amusement while viewing the wreckage in front of the Socialist hall at Seventh and Olive streets. None of the sailors who participated in the disturbance were molested by the police, but the provost guard sent ashore from the flagship West Virginia when the first riot call was sounded, rounded up all the men after several hours' work and early to-day there was not a sailor to be seen on the street. Chief of Police Bannick said that he did not have men enough to look after the regular duties of policemen when the city was crowded with strangers.

Bonfires in Streets.

The police who encountered the rioters seemed to take the disturbance good-naturedly and beyond seeing that no one was injured apparently made little serious effort to stop the progress of the mob.

The fire department was kept busy during the disturbance responding to calls to put out the fires started in the streets by the mob. Every time a bonfire was made of the furniture thrown from the buildings, the fire department responded in time to wet down the debris, but not once did they direct their streams of water into the crowd.

When the furniture thrown out of the I. W. W. meeting place at Westlake and Olive streets was burned the flames mounted dangerously near a frame hotel adjoining and the guests clambered down the fire escapes in night attire, while the sailors roamed through the halls shouting gleefully, thinking at first that the building was used as a lodging house by the I. W. W. One woman, a visitor from Hastings, Neb., fainted but soon revived.

Statement by Daniels.

When told of the extent of the damage done by the rioters, Secretary Daniels said it would not be fair to ask him to discuss the outbreak because he knew nothing about it. Concerning his speech at the Rainier Club, in which he glorified the Stars and Stripes and condemned the red flag, he said: "What I said concerning patriotism had no reference to any local situation. In fact, I do not know anything about local troubles, if you have any. I did not mention the I. W. W. nor did I know that that organization had obtained a foothold here. I confess that my brief talk on the flag was not made here for the first time but was a repetition of my recent address at Erie, Pa."

Rear-Admiral Reynolds, commander of the reserve fleet, expressed regret at the outbreak, of which he had heard only indefinite rumors and was therefore not in a position to discuss the rioting.

CLOSES ALL SALOONS STOPS SALE OF PAPER

Mayor Cotterill Fears Outbreak and Must See Proofs of Seattle Times.

Seattle, July 19.—Mayor Cotterill today issued a proclamation closing the saloons because he fears a further outbreak. He also issued orders that no copy of the Seattle Daily Times be sold upon the streets to-day unless the proofs be first submitted to him. The mayor addressed a knot of Socialists late last night. He said he believed that the attack on the I. W. W. and Socialist headquarters had been premeditated.

The mayor also issued orders that he would assume complete and personal control of the police department for the time being.

The Times applied for an injunction this morning, which was upheld by the court and the paper will be issued as usual.

SECRETARY DANIELS ON RESPECT OF THE FLAG

Naval Secretary Leaves Tacoma Tomorrow for California—Is Visiting Mount Rainier.

Tacoma, July 19.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, accompanied by his wife and two navy officers, arrived in Tacoma this morning and left at once by automobile for Mount Rainier. The secretary's party was accompanied by officials of the Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce, and will remain over night at National Park Inn. Secretary Daniels will leave to-morrow for California.

"I have only heard of what happened in Seattle last night," said Mr. Daniels, referring to the attack on the I. W. W. headquarters. "I understand it was provoked by trouble between the I. W. W. people and sailors or soldiers the night before. If the sailors made the attack unprovoked it was not right.

"I have been told there were many more civilians in the party than naval men. If army and navy men or civilians destroyed property they should be punished. Respect of the law and respect for the flag are the basic principles upon which America rests."

GERMAN ARMY BILL

Berlin, July 19.—The German war minister is preparing a bill to supply the army with new artillery, according to the Militerish Politische Korrespondens which is usually well-informed on military matters. From the same source it is learned that the German ministry of marine has already prepared a bill providing a fleet of cruisers for foreign service.

GUIDE'S BODY FOUND.

Athabasca, July 10.—The body of John Pappin, the native guide who was drowned with a party of Edmonton men two months ago, in the Berier rapids of the Athabasca river has been found by the mounted police patrol fifty miles below the scene of the tragedy.

OIL AS FUEL FOR BRITISH WARSHIPS

Government is Acquiring Part Interest in World's Best Oil Fields

DOMINIONS CAN ACT WITH MOTHER COUNTRY

Cannot Rely on Continental or American Fields as Means of Supply

HAS MANY ADVANTAGES OVER PRESENT METHODS

London, July 19.—The British navy is undergoing a revolution only comparable in importance to the substitution of steel for wood, steam for sails and breech-loading for muzzle-loading guns. In all of these changes Great Britain lagged behind in development, though what she lost at first she made up afterward by improving and adding to the work done by others. But in the latest revolution the substitution of oil for coal as fuel for warships, Great Britain is leading the rest of the world. Warned by her previous experiences and her failure to acquire for the use of the government or rather the navy, her own areas of steam coal, Great Britain means to go into the oil business on her own account. She is now acquiring a part interest in the world's best oil fields in order to ensure an adequate supply for the future.

By coming to this definite conclusion the government may well develop a policy of state organization of the oil fields of the Empire, in Burma, Borneo, Egypt and Trinidad, while the way lies open for co-operation with the governments of the Dominions for development on the most approved and scientific lines of the known and suspected oil resources of Canada, Newfoundland and Australia.

It is felt that it would never do for Great Britain to allow her naval supremacy to depend upon what are now the chief sources of oil, namely, Persia, Roumania and Russia, whence the supplies must come through the Mediterranean, or on Texas and California, which would entail bringing the oil through the Panama canal or across the United States. Even the supply from the Mexican fields would leave Great Britain more or less dependent on a foreign country and the oil route across the Atlantic dangerously exposed.

The Admiralty's new policy makes the development of the oil resources of the Empire of the greatest urgency and thus makes it imperative for all the organizing powers of the various governments of the Empire to unite on this problem. It is hoped that Canada's conservation commission will lose no time in getting in touch with the Admiralty.

Mr. Churchill has shown how the use of oil increases the efficiency of the fleet. Not only does oil fuel make the management of the big ships easier and better, but it gives them an extra turn of speed, and does away with the hell of the stokehole, which removes that worst feature of steam navigation and the greatest strain there is on human enrudance. Moreover it practically eliminates stokers, of whom there will be at least 400 to a battleship, from the engineroom and increases the general crew, and is an enormous saving of men. Again, as may be imagined, it enables ships to take fuel aboard on the high seas in almost any fweather, by suction pipes instead of coal baskets and derricks. Incidentally it would mean that at both Vancouver and Halifax there would be large depots for oil fuel as well as at all other naval centres.

The super-dreadnought Queen Elizabeth, now building at Portsmouth, will be the first battleship in the world to be driven entirely by oil fuel. She is really a combination of the battleship and the battleship cruiser, and it is expected to do away with the present type of battleship cruiser and increase the efficiency of the battleship. She is of 29,000 tons displacement, has a speed of 25 knots, eight 16-inch guns and a 14-inch armor belt. Great Britain is also already building four other warships, the most powerful in the world, all of which will burn oil and oil only.

Germany has easy access to the Galician and Roumanian oil fields, which are close to her own borders, and from whence it can be easily transported overland. The Diesel engine is now being placed in the German warships, thus increasing their radius of action and allowing for increased personnel. These two points are vital of course to Great Britain, which has a world empire to defend.

Thus the question of oil fields is likely to be one of tremendous international import. Great Britain cannot afford to allow any opportunities to slip by of the establishing of her interests in new fields, and all new developments are being watched here with the keenest interest.

BRITISH PARTY NOW ON WAY TO CANADA

Parliamentarians Numbering Twenty With Friends Are on Tour

ARRIVE IN VICTORIA EARLY IN AUGUST

To Sail on Makura for New Zealand and Australian States

MANY CELEBRATED MEN AMONG THE TRAVELLERS

London, July 19.—Twenty members of the Imperial parliament left Liverpool on the Allan liner Victorian on their tour to Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and expect to be away for about four months. The party will arrive in Montreal on July 25, and will be given a welcome by a committee composed of several prominent citizens of that city. Eighteen days will be spent in Canada, and on August 6 the party will leave Victoria aboard the Makura for New Zealand by way of Honolulu and the Fiji islands, the voyage taking about three weeks. Only three days will be spent in New Zealand, as the party is due in Sydney on September 2.

The greater part of the time at the disposal of the party will be spent in Australia, as the invitation came from there. All the chief cities and institutions will be visited during their stay there, which will last until October 1, when they are due to sail home for England.

In April a cablegram was received from the Australian branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association inviting twenty members of the British parliament to visit that country this year, and it was promised that the prime minister of the Commonwealth and the state premiers would extend official welcomes and courtesies.

On the suggestion of the Speaker steps were taken to arrange a visit and although there has been difficulty in obtaining twenty members from the houses of parliament with the necessary leisure, the number was completed before the party sailed.

During th party's stay in Canada, a Canadian Pacific special will be placed at its disposal. The party will visit Montreal and then from Ottawa will go on to Toronto. Port McNicholl will be the next place visited and from there the visitors will take the C. P. R. steamer Alberta to Fort William. While in Fort William the members of the party will be the guests for a few hours of Mr. J. J. Carrick, M. P., who will show the British parliamentarians the wonderful development of the twin cities at the head of the Canadian lakes. Winnipeg will be visited and it is also the intention of the members of the party to spend a few days at Banff, leaving there in time to spend a few days in Victoria before sailing for the Antipodes. Suitable arrangements for the welcoming of these distinguished visitors and also for their entertainment will be made in all the Canadian cities that they visit.

The following is a list of the delegates who will soon reach Canadian shores: Lord Emmott, under-secretary of state for the colonies, and Lady Emmott; Lord Calthorpe and Lady Calthorpe; Lord Castlemeine; His Majesty's lieutenant of County Westmeath, Ireland, since 1899; Lord Sheffield, member of London school board, 1876-1885, M. P. for Chertsey division of Surrey since 1910, and a well known Canadian, will be one of the party as will Mr. M. S. Amery, M. P. for South Birmingham, a member of the editorial staff of the London Times and a brother-in-law of Mr. Hamar Greenwood, M. P.; Sir Joseph Walton Bart, M. BANDIT WANTED FOR NANAIMO ROBBERY IS ESCAPED PRISONER FROM NANAIMO

Mysterious Black Boat Visits Shaw Island During Night and Residents Say Man Police and Patrol Boats Are Watching Was Taken Off by His Friend

Bellingham, Wash., July 19.—That one of the bandits who held up the bank clerks near Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, July 5, and escaped after robbing them of about $2,500, had escaped from the provincial jail at Nanaimo a few days before the hold-up, is a statement made here to-day. He was assisted in his escape from the jail by an outsider, and it is understood that Pinkerton detectives conducted the search for him after his escape from jail.

His name is William Sampson, and he is the bandit who stayed in this city after the pair bought new clothing. His description tallies with that of the man who is missing from the provincial jail at Nanaimo, and he has several toes missing from one foot. He has been traced from Bellingham to Tacoma and back up the Sound to a fishing camp on one of the islands near Shaw island.

These facts were put to the Canadian officers working on the case at Shaw island and vicinity and were not denied by them. Each step the bandit has taken since leaving Bellingham about a week ago has been followed and the description tallies.

The belief is strong to-day that the bandit who has been for days surrounded on Shaw island is no longer there, and the belief is based on the appearance Thursday night of a mysterious black rowboat without lights, which slipped quietly up to the beach near the Quimby cannery, on the east side of Shaw island, and which the officers in search of the bandit bank robber only learned of late yesterday. This has started afresh the belief that the highwayman who has been dodging the posses for two weeks has not only given the officers the slip on the island, but that he has left the archipelago, with the help of the other man.

Three or four residents of the island assert that on the evening that the bandit showed himself to the cannery people, and after darkness had crept along the shore, a boat painted black nosed its way up to the beach from across the channel and a man landed and uttered a peculiar whistle. In a few minutes he disappeared in the heavy woods along the beach, and shortly after two men appeared and hurriedly entered the boat and rowed away. Newspapermen returning from Shaw island last night say there is as much proof to show that the bandit quitted the island as there is to sustain the belief of the officers that he still is in hiding. One thing is certain, the systematic patrol of all the ranch houses Thursday night failed to get any trace of the holdup, either by sight or by sign. A telephone message from the island late Thursday says that the posses will form a line and beat the woods in the neighborhood of the cannery, where the bandit has been seen of late. If this sortie is unsuccessful the officers are almost ready to give up the search, it is asserted.

LOW RATES ON SOUND TO NOME STEAMSHIPS

Dickenson Will Offer to Carry Mails Free of Charge for United States.

Dawson, Y. T., July 19.—President O. L. Dickeson, of the White Pass route, arrived yesterday from the coast and leaves at once for Fairbanks, accompanied by Supt. Wheeler, Auditor Miller and Private Secretary Blanchard. This is the first visit of any of the party to that point. Mr. Dickeson announced yesterday that he will offer to carry the United States mails over his lines and out of Fairbanks and anywhere along the route free of charge all of this season.

He says he bid for the contract, but failed to get it. A horizontal reduction of $25 in fares over his lines is now in effect on all tickets each way between Fairbanks and White Horse, and includes a reduction from each point to and from Dawson. He says that ocean freight rates in Skagway have been reduced one-half this season. His company is going after the passenger business between Seattle and Nome, thinking low rates will help switch it to the Yukon river route as against the rough passage by ocean.

BRITISHERS UNPOPULAR WITH CHINESE GENERAL

Shanghai, July 19.—A story brought here from Kiu Kiang, a treaty port in the province of Kiang Si, states that in the recent fighting Mr. Duff, the storekeeper at Kuling, a mission station, about ten miles south of Kiu Kiang, tried to obtain a pass from the northern general to send provisions to the foreign residents at Kuling.

Mr. Duff presented a card of introduction from the British consul, but the general's secretary tore it to pieces, saying there were no facilities there for Britishers.

Subsequently Mr. Duff obtained a pass for the provisions with the aid of a United States card of introduction to the general.

DIAMOND POINT LEPER HAS NOT BEEN FOUND

Man Taken at Index Proves to Be Shepherd Who Suffered From Skin Disease.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 19.—To the great disappointment of the United States public health authorities, the suspected leper taken into custody at Index was not Dominic Pitteri, who escaped from Diamond Point, but a sheepherder named Jose Antonio Amato, a native of Guatemala. As a result of a skin disease called lupus, his face was covered with sores, presenting a more suspicious appearance than Pitteri.

After compelling Amato to change his clothing and wrap himself in a quilt the sheriff of Snohomish county brought him to Everett in an automobile, where he was met by Surgeon Earle, who pronounced him not the man wanted.

Dr. Earle stated that the condition of Amato was such that he should be looked after by the state authorities, and advised the sheriff to communicate with the state health authorities. Dr. Earle further stated that Pitteri showed but little signs of the leprosy, and could mingle with people without creating suspicion, hence he is a menace to be at large, as he is liable to communicate the disease to others. Owing to the fact that it has been 12 days since he escaped, Dr. Earle has given up hope of his capture before he reaches his home in Minneapolis, and hopes that during his trip across the continent the results may not be serious.

MAJOR DUPONT ON THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Has His Panama Cleaned in Montreal for 40c and Sees $3.50 Shirts for $1.50.

Montreal, July 19.—That prices in Victoria, B. C., are just baout three times what they are in Montreal is the statement of Major T. Dupont, who is now in Montreal on his way to England. The major went to Victoria in 1872, and was one of the two men who secured the entry of the C. P. R. He is going to England to spend the remainder of his days.

The major said that he had wanted to have his panama hat cleaned in Victoria, and that he would have been charged $1.50. So he wore the hat to Montreal, where he had it cleaned for 40 cents. Shirts that sell in Montreal for $1.50 cost $3.50 in Victoria, and everything else costs in proportion. The major has watched Victoria grow from a coast village in 1872 to a city of 60,000 inhabitants. British Columbia, he says, occupies the enviable position of being practically clear of debt, although there may be a few outstanding liabilites, there is money in the bank to pay off everything the province owes.

CHINESE RECOGNITION AND THAT OF MEXCO

London, July 19.—The Daily News in an editorial asks why the powers, which dealt in a harsh manner with the regicide Servian government and the Portuguese republic, and even now refuse to recognize the Chinese republic, should be so eager to get the United States to bless General Huerta.

The editorial accuses the powers of doing in Mexican affairs only what financiers and concessionaires want, and thinks that President Wilson is not likely to be actuated by such motives.

TO MAKE BEAUTY LOTIONS.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 19.—Lillian Russell's husband, Alexander P. Moore, president and editor of the Pittsburg Leader, which has for its political slogan "For President in 1916, Theodore Roosevelt," will forsake journalism to manufacture his wife's beauty lotions, according to friends here. He is expected to resign when he returns from Europe in August.

Bisley Camp, July 19.—A steady downpour all night with pouring rain to-day makes conditions generally wretched, and particularly from the point of view of Canadian marksmen habituated to clear skies and bright light. This is unfortunate as to-day's programme is a heavy one for Canadians, shooting taking place in a number of events counting in the service rifle grand aggregate, and also qualifying for inclusion in the first stage of the King's prize.

These are the Daily Graphic and the Daily Telegraph. Seven shots at respectively 200, 500 and 600 yards, the stock exchange is shot for concurrently at the same distances. The Wimbledon cup is another service rifle event, ten shots at 600 yards.

Following are the individual Canadian scores in the Daily Graphic, seven shots at 200 yards, and in the Graphic seven shots at 500 yards:

CHEESE KING OPENING MANY MILK FACTORIES

Clayburn is Site for First Building—One to Be Constructed on Vancouver Island.

Vancouver, July 19.—A. F. Maclaren, of Toronto, famous as a Canadian cheese king, announced to-day his selection of Clayburn as the site of the first of a series of milk factories to be established in British Columbia for the purpose of handling milk under a process which he controls and which is credited with preserving the milk indefinitely. He has just completed the organization of a provincial company with an authorized capital of $400,000.

"Construction of the Clayburn factory will be started at once and we will have the plant in operation within ten weeks," said Mr. Maclaren to-day. "There will be plants on Vancouver Island, in Nicola Valley, the Okanagan and Kootenays as well as at favorable points along the line of the C. P. R.

"The milk is homeogenized, sterilized and pasteurized by this new process and once bottled will keep for years in any climate. We see a great field for its use not only in British Columbia but in the Oriental markets which use large quantities of condensed milk. The milk is bottled and can be ordered by the case. It is germ proof. Our western factories in the prairie provinces are many carloads behind in their orders owing to the immense demand. We sell our sterilized milk in 900 Toronto stores.

BULGARIANS SURRENDER.

Bucharest, July 19.—An entire Bulgarian brigade of ninth division, with its commanding general and twelve field guns surrendered to a Roumanian flying column yesterday at Ferdinandovo between Los Palanka and Sofia. The captured brigade was acting as a rear guard and assisting in the retirement of Major-general Kutinleheff's division. It was overtaken by the Roumanian cavalry and artillery after a brief fight.

TRACADIE PHYSICIAN FINDS LEPROSY CURE

Four Chinese Were Treated During Year at D'Arcy One of Whom Died

Ottawa, July 19.—That the dreaded leprosy disease is curable, is shown in a statement by Dr. Langis, medical superintendent of the lazaretto at Tracadie, N. B., to the public health department here. Two patients who were in the early stages of leprosy, have been discharged during the year from the lazaretto after treatment by Dr. D. N. Thesaby, since 1911.

There are present in the lazaretto twenty-one patients, eleven males and ten females. Seventeen of these are of French-Canadian and two of Iceland and one of Russian origin. No deaths occurred during the year.

The leper lazaretto at D'Arcy, B. C., was used during the year for accommodation of four Chinese lepers, while awaiting deportation under the immigration regulations.

The death of one of these men occurred at D'Arcy island, the others being deported to China. They were given the address of the leper mission hospital at Canton and given enough to pay for their stay there for some months.

WOMAN RE-ARRESTED.

Portland, Ore., July 19.—Dr. Marie Equi, who was arrested in the street riot last night, and who later stabbed an officer with a hatpin, failed to leave the city last night as she had promised if released, and shortly before midnight was again placed in custody. Four charges are placed against her, on which she will be tried if she is not found insane. An effort will be made to have a sanity commission hear her case at once.

VETO IS TAKEN FROM THE KING OF NORWAY

Vote Was Passed in the Starthing by Majority of Eighty-Six

Christiania, Norway, July 19.—The bill abolishing the King's right of veto on constitutional acts has been passed in the Storthing by 99 votes to 13.

As the constitution of Norway has been built up by the nation, and the King has had no part in the changes made, either in 1814, or in 1905, it was considered unnecessary to have his formal assent before a bill should become law. This has for long been a burning question, as until now the King has had the right to use a sort of suspensive veto, by which he was able, for a while, to stop the carrying through of a resolution passed in the Storthing. The King could not, however, refuse his assent, and even if he did, the bill became law.

The result of this has been that when the Conservatives have been in power, constitutional bills have been presented to the King for his assent. When the Radicals, on the other hand, formed the majority in the Storthing and the ministry, this was not done, and in consequence two kinds of laws exist, those which have received the King's assent, and those which have not. The Radicals maintained that the constitution ought to be made clear and intelligible on this point, and as all parties really acknowledged the non-existence of any veto in constitutional matters, the time had come to settle these affairs.

In reality all parties were agreed, but a small group of Conservatives were somewhat afraid of breaking away from an ancient practice, and they hesitated to deny the King the right to give his assent to the laws which the Storthing had passed, and which had been signed by the speaker and secretary. The thirteen representatives who voted against the measure belong to the most conservative section of the House.

NEGRO SPEEDING HOME FROM RACES IS KILLED

Fatal Automobile Accident When Travelling on Lulu Island Road at Forty Miles an Hour.

Vancouver, July 19.—Caught beneath the steering wheel of his automobile, which overturned in a ditch when attempting to pass a taxicab on River road, Lulu island, yesterday afternoon, Clarence Graves, a well-known character in Vancouver negro quarters, sustained such severe internal injuries that he died while being brought to the general hospital here. In company with Graves at the time of the accident were William Hicks, a negro, and a negress whose name was not learned. Neither, however, sustained any injuries, besides unimportant bruises and scratches. The party were returning from Minoru park races, and were, according to eyewitnesses, travelling at nearly forty miles an hour.

As they were about half a mile from the Eburne bridge, a taxicab suddenly appeared in front of them. Hearing the horn being blown by Graves for the right-of-way, the taxicab driver attempted to turn to the left hand side of the road when the machine, driven by Graves ran into his rear wheel. In endeavoring to regain the centre of the road, Graves gave his car an extra twist, and in a moment it had overturned in the ditch.

AGREEMENT FOR SALE OF TORONTO TRAMWAYS

Deal Conditional on City Acquiring Electric Light Plant for $8,000,000.

Toronto, Ont., July 19.—The sale of every privately-owned electrical railway franchise, the Interurban Light & Power Company and all assets of such interests within the city limits, for $22,000,000, if reports show their property and rights worth this amount, is the essential feature of the agreement reached between Mayor Hocken and Comptroller McCarthy, after a keen and lengthy battle of wits with E. K. Wood, William Moore, Z. A. Lash and other representatives of the Mackenzie interests in the city.

The price of $22,000,000 includes the Toronto, and the Toronto & Suburban railway's assets and franchises, the Interurban Light & Power Company, the end of the Metropolitan railway on Yonge street, the sections of all radial lines within the city limits; in brief, all the tracks and rights within the city limits.

Provision has been made, it is understood, by which the city may acquire other portions of such radials as the city boundaries are extended. It is a complete clean-up of all electrical railway franchises in the city. The deal is conditional upon the city acquiring the Toronto Electric Light Company's franchise and holdings at a price of $8,000,000.

For the entire deal the city will be required to raise only $8,000,000 cash by the sale of the city bonds secured by the properties acquired.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE.

Tokio, July 19.—Japanese inventors have made a successful wireless telephone apparatus. Instruments were installed on board a ship and at two points in the city of Yokohama. After a series of experiments it was found that conversation was clearly audible at a distance of 20 knots out to sea, and short messages were exchanged even at a distance of 60 knots. After a few more experiments the department of communications will open the new system for the use of the general public.

TURKS FEAR FRENCH MOVEMENT IN SYRIA

Will Attempt to Allay Revolutionary Spirit and Induce People to Accept Reforms

Beirut, Syria, July 19.—The Turkish government is in obvious uneasiness over the condition of Syria, and apparently has some fear of French intervention.

About a month ago Kiamil Pasha came to Beirut, but he only remained a little over a week. Two stories were given to account for his visit, the first that he was in search of an asylum, which is probably inaccurate; the other, and probably the true one, that he was commissioned by the government in Constantinople to see what he could do to check the revolutionary spirit which is beginning to pervade Syria, and to persuade the people to accept the conditions of reform offered to them.

He had been known as a sympathizer with revolutionary measures, and so it was thought that if he became the spokesman on the other side an effective way would have been found of damping the spirits of the leaders.

A little after him came Shukri Pasha, the famous commandant of Adrianople during the siege. It is said that no less than 20,000 Turkish troops are being sent to strengthen his command, so great is the fear that France may announce her intention of occupying Syria owing to the disorder there.

Hilmi Pasha is also on his way to the Lebanon. It is intended that he should carry out reforms in the manner he carried them out in Macedonia, where he seems to have succeeded in disbursing the funds provided for the purpose without accomplishing anything of any moment—a method evidently highly satisfactory to the Porte.

In the meantime the factories have again got to work, owing to the fact that the silk worms in the plains have spun their cocoons, and so there is less distress and unrest.

Those who tended the silk worms whilst they were feeding are now engaged in selling "jizzy." This consists of the old dried mulberry leaves which are left on the trays when the silk worms have finished feeding.

As the worms grow bigger the people put small twigs with leaves on the trays instead of single leaves. Fresh food is put on top of these, but the old is not removed. Consequently by the time the silk worms spin their cocoons there is quite a pile of old leaves on each tray.

This is sold as dry food for cattle, a about 55 piastres a donkey-load, and is considered one of the most important cattle foods in the country.

The year has been a good one for the silk worms, and the silk crop is much more plentiful than last year. If the price of silk is maintained it will be, therefore, a prosperous one for the peasants.

When these peasants have been successful with their silk worms they decorate the donkeys, mules and camels which bring the loads to the factories with blue beads, branches of pine and plum blossom. The price of silk in all probability, therefore, rather than Shukri Pasha's bayonets may be the deciding factor in pacifying the country in the immediate future.

TWO-THIRDS OF TOWN DESTROYED; LOSS HEAVY

Sheridan, Oregon, Suffers From Disastrous Fire Which Burns Many Buildings.

Portland, Ore., July 19.—The business portion of Sheridan, Ore., about sixty miles southwest from Portland, was destroyed by a fire which started yesterday at 5.30 o'clock. The loss is placed at $200,000 to $300,000. The district on the south side of the river is completely gone. Two-thirds of the city is destroyed.

Included in the destroyed buildings are both banks, the Sheridan hotel, restaurants, general merchandise stores and residences. The flames were not completely controlled at 9 p. m. The southern train dispatcher ticked news of the fire to the Portland office at 7 o'clock just before he was driven from his key by the flames. The McMinnville, Ore., fire department, twenty miles away, went to the aid in response to a call for outside help. An engine and crew were sent.

ILLNESS IS FEIGNED UNDER BRITISH ACT

Fourteen Million People Are Now Paying Their Weekly Contributions

London, July 19.—If all men were perfectly honest schemes like the Liberal government Insurance Act might be ideal schemes. But the few months in which the act has been in operation have shown that many cannot resist temptation. The amount of feigned illness among the insured is becoming a great scandal. In this respect Great Britain is repeating the experience of Germany, which furnished the model for the Lloyd George bill. The Germans have invented a new word for the illness of the government 'insured, and some similar word will be needed in England soon.

Some employers who pay small wages find that the number of employees absent from work on account of alleged illness is from twice to ten times the number under former conditions, before workmen and women were assured of ten shillings a week whenever they laid off. The doctors agree that there is an enormous amount of malingering, but have not yet discovered any cure. Many people consider that a week of leisure, with an income of ten shillings, is a justifiable holiday. When the official doctor asserts that they are not ill they begin to denounce the act as a fraud, and make political capital of it. Conservative newspapers are only too willing to print complaints from the insured that the insurance act is a failure.

Fourteen million people are now paying their weekly contributions, "licking stamps," the government's opponents say derisively. Undoubtedly many of them find fault with the administration of the act, and probably some amendments will be found necessary. New problems develop every day. An employer has written to the papers explaining that an employee had been four or five months in jail charged with murder. The trial resulted in acquittal. The employer wants to take back the man, but wants to know who is to pay the insurance contributions for the time of detention in jail. The act says nothing on that point.

For the time opposition to the insurance scheme, or rather criticism of it, is the principal political capital of the Conservative party. But while Conservatives declare that compulsory insurance is a failure their leaders do not go so far as to urge repeal. It is unpopular with many people, but whether it is not popular with the great majority of the insured is still an open question.

SOON TO ASK TENDERS FOR OUTER PIER WORK

Estimated Cost About Two Million Dollars for Harbor Construction at Victoria.

Ottawa, July 19.—Plans for the harbor work for this season at Victoria have now been completed by the engineering branch of the public works department and as soon as the specifications are printed tenders will be called for.

The work calls for the building of two piers, one of a thousand feet and the other eight hundred and seventy feet in length.

They will be built of concrete and crib work, and will provide three berths for the largest liners.

The estimated cost of the work is around two million dollars, and it is said that Victoria will be made a real national port, capable of handling the largest steamers and of taking care of the development which is looked for with the opening of the Panama canal.

JAPANESE PICTURES IN PALACE AT HAGUE

Tokio, July 19.—Japan will contribute to the peace palace at The Hague nine beautiful pictures of flowers and birds, elaborately worked upon silk tapestry. In these pictures are depicted, in artistic variety and arrangement, such blooming trees as the cherry, purple magnolia, paulownia, wisteria and azalia, and flowers such as the lily, peony, marigold and dandelion, together with peacocks, pheasants, pigeons, sparrows and swallows. Of the nine pictures the two principal measure 15 by 16 feet and represent a majestic peacock strutting under beautiful cherry blossoms. These tapestries were designed by Hobun Kikuchi, a famous Japanese artist, and their manufacture was started in November, 1909, and has only just been finished.

A CANADIAN ARTAGNAN.

The Hon. the Minister of Militia and his officers of the permanent forces fiercely confront each other with bare swords. The Colonel appears to have drawn first blood. It looks as though there might be a "bonnie fecht." In the meantime we do not care to express an opinion on the merits of the potentially sanguinary conflict. But we cannot permit an injustice to be done the Hon. the Minister of Militia and Defence. The Vancouver Sun indiscreetly says the minister is but a paper warrior, that he is a mere militiaman, has never done anything in the line of real, practical warfare. Shades of dead Boers on the veldt! What do you think of that? What will Turpin say when he reads it? Did not Colonel Sam defy the constituted military authorities and force himself with a roar like unto that of a sixteen-inch gun into the campaign in South Africa? Didn't he and his man Turpin surround a Boer commando? Weren't the faces of the valiant twain so terrible to look upon that the troops of Oom Paul were seized with a form of paralysis and laid down their arms in submission? Or at least didn't their field cornet give a written undertaking that they would surrender? What if the Boers, notoriously "slim" (meaning slippery), refused to carry out their pledge after reconnoitering and appraising the strength of their conquerors? Does that detract in the slightest degree from the merits of the extraordinary feat of the Colonel and his man Turpin? Was it not the appearance of the two Canadian musketeers on the veldt that broke the hearts of the Boers and turned the tide of victory towards the British? Has the Sun not heard of these things? Because they are set down in black and white in the pages of the Minister of Militia's own paper, and they were written by his own hand.

DANGERS OF CENTRALIZATION.

In his recent book "The Britannic Question," Richard Jebb, the well-known British writer on Imperialism, points out that an obvious mark of federalism in Mr. Borden's naval pronouncement was that he discarded the plan of dominion fleet units in favor of that of naval centralization under Imperial control. In his discussion with the Admiralty the Canadian premier approached the question entirely in a federalist spirit. Mr. Jebb then goes on to say: "The implicit confidence shown by Mr. Borden in the continuous wisdom and efficiency of the British Admiralty is characteristic of Imperial federalists overseas; but can hardly be shared by any who have followed the independent criticism of its modern administration, and have noted that certain specific and telling indictments seem to remain unanswered. The analogy of the centralized War Office, with the gigantic incompetence it displayed in South Africa—an incompetence mitigated in the crisis by the happy fact that it had failed to drag the dominions into its net—must inspire some misgiving as to how the Admiralty might emerge from that vital test which has not arisen for a hundred years."

Clearly Mr. Jebb, who knows the history of empires, is opposed to centralization, either under the guise of Imperial Federation or centralized control—by the Admiralty—of the Imperial naval forces. He points out that if the experience of the former naval agreements with Australia and New Zealand is any guide, there would be little probability of any considerable number of officers being drawn from the dominions into an Imperial naval service paid at British rates and directed by a purely British executive. Nor is it easy to imagine that the people of Britain would very readily consent to have their taxation increased for the purpose of subsidizing the shipbuilding industry in Canada and Australia. Since Britain would enjoy not only a preponderance in the federal legislature but also the sole management of the naval organization, the concessions originally promised to the dominions would tend in practice to become trifling. In a striking passage Mr. Jebb adds: "Judging by the experience hitherto gained, the Britannic navy under Imperial Federation would in reality no more represent the Empire than the Athenian navy represented the Delian league after the allies had been persuaded to transmute their independent contingents into cash subsidies to that one Admiralty which alone, they were led to believe, either did or could possess the capacity to manage a navy—and which finally exhibited the triumph of centralization when its navy sank in the harbor of Syracuse, carrying with it the Athenian Empire."

Mr. Jebb's oppositiorn to a centralized Imperial navy is well founded. The system which Mr. Borden advocates violates one of the elementary laws of existence. The first duty of a citizen in the matter of defence is to his own home. The first duty of the dominion, which is a collection of citizens, is to protect its own territory. Great Britain solved the problem of empire by conferring upon the various dominions the fullest powers of self-government, and this principle was extended to the organization and control of defence forces on land. Why then should it not be applied to defence at sea?

In all parts of Canada a sober and industrious people are looking forward hopefully to the harvest. In different section the fruits to be gathered take various forms. On the prairies it is wheat that is the staple product. Farther east they do not "put all their eggs in one basket." The earth is made to yield of her increase in a variety of ways. Here our most important seasonable industry is the capture of fish. But whatever be the occupation of the people and wherever they pursue their occupation, the weather plays a very important part in the enterprise. Even the fishing industry is dependent to a not inconsiderable extent upon favorable weather. Just at the present time, therefore, it is pleasaht to reflect that advices from all quarters are that the weather is all that could be desired. May these desirable conditions continue, because from a business point of view very much depends upon a bounteous harvest this year in Canada. If the men who hold the purse strings can be shown that this is a land of abundance, the money market will speedily "loosen up."

One coal dealer in Victoria, referring to our remarks on the fuel situation, explains that he has an abundance of island coal in his bunkers. But it was not with the existing situation we were dealing. There is not a very active demand for fuel at the present time. The original source of all fuel deposits is attending quite effectively to all existing requirements. But when the sun wanders off towards the other side of the line there may be a different story to tell. One source of supply may hardly be sufficient. Besides we are now importing coal in large quantities and exporting dollars in a corresponding ratio. That is not a wise thing to do under existing conditions. The Colonist claims no responsibility falls upon the provincial premier in connection with the matter. Possibly an investigation might show that Sir Richard is not altogether blameless in the matter. At any rate, if he is really such a potent figure as our contemporary constantly represents him, a little thing like a disagreement between coal operators and operatives ought not to completely stump him.

William Mackenzie, for many years doyen of the parliamentary press gallery at Ottawa and now secretary for imperial and foreign correspondence, is contributing a series of articles to the Westminster on "Parliament, Press and People." The first article appeared in the July number of the magazine. Mr. Mackenzie is exceedingly well-equipped for his task. He was a member of the press gallery in the nation's capital for more than thirty years. He knew intimately the leading statesmen of both parties, in fact no man in Canada more fully enjoyed the confidences of the master minds in the political life of this country during the last three decades. We may expect from his pen vivid pictures of the politics and politicians forming the moving drama at Ottawa during his long survey of the scene from the vantage point of the press gallery.

We do not agree with the mayor that we should delay the construction of a new city jail until the question of civic buildings in general is determined. A new jail is an absolute necessity. The other proposition is less pressing. Besides Victoria must not think of tackling any more ambitious projects until she is in a better financiay position.

The proposition of an international railway through British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska, as outlined by our contemporary this morning, is picturesque to say the least. But it is very remote. All the financial energies of Canada at present are being devoted to the completion of our east and west transcontinentals, and we are not out of the woods yet. If such a road is ever built it cannot be under the conditions suggested by the morning paper. A little reflection will disclose why.

* * *

Mr. Churchill wants Canada to adopt a policy of permanent contributions to the Admiralty, and Mr. Borden, who vigorously opposed the idea in 1909, now approves of the principle. The First Lord of the Admiralty obviously regards the protection of the Mediterranean as of greater importance than the protection of the Pacific Coast of Canada. From his point of view his attitude is justified, but Canadians quite naturally regard the protection of their own shores as a more urgent proposition than the safeguarding of the Mediterranean. The two views are irreconcilable, and that is why Canada should never abate one jot or tittle of control over her own naval expenditure. Is it not extraordinary that Canadians should be expected to contribute to a fleet at Gibraltar and ignore the necessities of their own defence? Sir Wilfrid Laurier is quite prepared to face the people on that issue. Mr. Borden is not.

King Constantine of Greece and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria seem to have excellent press agents. Each accuses the other of all the crimes in the decalogue, and then some. We expect soon to hear a message of protest from the gentle and humane Turk on the ground of the barbarities of his opponents. As a matter of fact, it is quite safe to assume that none of the Balkan nations would overlook an opportunity of indulging in the luxury of a massacre. They are wiping off old racial scores which have been heaping up for centuries.

The "fish walk" is the very latest in dances, and of course it has tripped its way across from New York to London. The new movement requires no light, fantastic foot. It is described as a sort of sinuous slide, entailing no great amount of physical exertion. Hence it is reported to be quite popular already in circles where it is considered "good form" to appear tired and bored. Some people, it seems, will "truck and trade" with the Yankees.

* * *

President Wilson of the United States, is a wonderful man, more wonderful, in our opinion, than the great George Washington. George couldn't tell a lie, tradition says. But Woodrow is an ardent golfer, and the most violent expletive he has been heard to use on the links is "Tut! Tut!" What stories they will be telling about the present president a hundred years hence.

* * *

There are to be no political organizations in the carnival parade. This is to be regretted. We imagine the Beaver Club in a tally-ho would be one of the most attractive features in the line. Sir Richard on a raised dais in the centre surrounded by big and little Beavers, and over all a large banner with the motto, "All for each, each for all," would be a spectacle long remembered by our visitors.

A Great Clearance of Men's High-Grade Summer Suits

Regular $20 to $30 Values, Clearing at $13.75

They are being sold irrespective of their former prices, and the man who wants a smart and serviceable suit will find this to be his golden opportunity to save money, and get the best that merchant tailors can produce.

A good Suit is a good investment, and its value does not stop at its value as a mere garment. It's well proportioned lines, good fit and smart appearance give to the wearer a sense of comfort and confidence that are in themselves well worth the price of the suit.

These values include Fancy Worsteds, Tweeds and Cheviots, in a large assortment of Bannockburn Mixtures, in browns, greys, greens and fawns, also fine finished twills in stripes and broken checks.

Suits that regularly sell at $20.00 to $30.00, now marked for Special Clearing at $13.75

If you like, see what others are selling at a similar price and then come and examine these. Examine them carefully—note the high-class quality of the material, the superior workmanship—note, too, how well the coat hangs, how the collar fits. These are the little, but essential details that go to the making up of a good suit, and it's by paying special attention to these details that has made our suits so popular, and won for us a name that we are proud of, and one that we in tend to keep.

The sale price brings these Suits within the reach of all, and the young man who has hitherto not been able to indulge in such a high-grade quality, has his opportunity during this Sale to buy one for the low price of $9.75

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Shakespeare wrote: "The choicest treasure mortal times afford is spotless reputation."

Whether we are in business or in a profession, whether we are large or small, if our success depend upon our dealings with the public, a fair and honest reputation is indeed a choice treasure.

To have no reputation is almost as undesirable as to have a bad one.

Sometimes an enterprising manufacturer arranges to distribute his product through an equally enterprising retailer. In this way two substantial reputations unite in a common cause. Each strengthens and fortifies the other.

The retailer who has not yet enjoyed the benefit of selling a nationally known article and of being helped by the manufacturer's "spotless reputation" tacked onto his own is overlooking one of the finer points in latter day merchandising.

If you are interested in local advertising for national products write to the BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, World Building, New York.

A LINE O' CHEER
EACH DAY O' TH' YEAR
By John Kendrick Bangs

THE LITTLE SONG.

When trouble came and skies were drear,
Although his soul was filled with fear,
His heart within would softly croon
A sort of cheerful little tune:
Tara-diddle, tara-diddle, tara-diddle-dee.

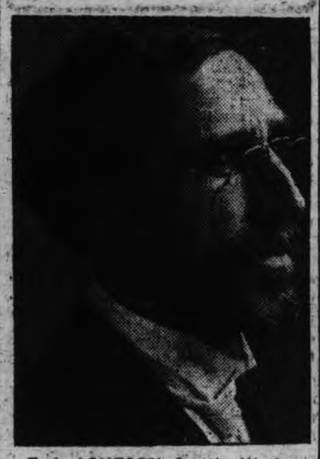
No matter what the trouble there
It helped him over his despair—
That little song within his heart,
Devoid though it might be of art:
Tara-diddle, Tara-diddle, tara-diddle-dee.

"No man," quoth he, "can really mope
And find himself bereft of hope,
If only as he walks along
He'll hum that simple little song:
Tara-diddle, Tara-diddle, tara-diddle-dee.

So all together! —et it ring!
Join in the chorus, all, and sing.
Start with a will each new-born day
With this, his care-dispelling lay;
Tara-diddle, Tara-diddle, tara-diddle-dee.

PASTOR ACHESON'S LECTURE TO-MORROW

"God's message for those who have hearing ears," will be the subject of Pastor Acheson's discourse Sunday, July 20, at 3 p. m., in the Moose hall, 1613 Douglas street. His message will be one of special interest to all those hungering and thirsting after righteousness. Man's heart craves for something, there is a void in every heart, an unsatisfiable longing for something to satisfy. Wealth, nor pleasure, nor fame, nor temporal prosperity can satisfy this craving, no, only one thing can do this, the love of God as revealed in Christ Jesus.



F. A. ACHESON, Seattle, Wash.

The world to-day is hungering and perishing for this love, men's hearts are calling as never before, for sympathy and love, for the peace of God which passeth all understanding "the Gospel of Hope as revealed in Jesus Christ."

This meeting and those to follow are non-sectarian and are follow-up meetings to those which have been delivered in the Alexandra Club. Many questions will be made clear which have long been considered mysterious. Pastor Acheson is a deep student and loyal upholder of the Bible as the inspired Word of God. All are cordially invited. Seats free. No collection. •

FOUNDATION BEING RENEWED.

Track of Electric Railway on Government Street Subsided Through Old Ditch.

Passengers travelling on Beacon Hill and Outer Wharf cars during the last two days will have noticed that a break has been made in the line at a point near the corner of Government and Fort streets. Cars going towards Douglas street and to Spring Ridge are obliged to cross the track by a short loop and proceed onward for a score of yards or so on the wrong track, when they proceed again by another cross line on to their proper line.

The reason of this alteration is somewhat interesting. In the early days of Victoria a ditch was run along under where the present roadway stands, and the presence of this has served to weaken the foundation of the track so effectively that it has been found necessary to repair the foundation. This is being done, and the renewal is being accomplished as fast as can be, gangs of men working night and day to that end.

Another Missing Husband.—Some time ago Mrs. Louise Harkness wrote to the police department asking if they could trace her husband, James H. Harkness, who deserted her and their children two years ago, but nothing could be learned about him here. Today the department had another letter from Mrs. Harkness, who writes now from Roseisle, Man., acknowledging the reply sent her at the time, and suggesting that he might be heard from at the Work Point barracks, as he had spoken often of going to Esquimalt and enlisting. Inquiry will be made there for him.

It Wont Wear Away
"I'd buy a Columbia," said a recent visitor to our showrooms, after listening to several selections on the Columbia Graphophone, "but I'm afraid that I'd become tired of it after a while."
Reader, you NEVER become tired of good music properly rendered, unless your appreciation of good music is wholly artificial and ephemeral. Of course, if you only PRETEND that you like music you WILL become tired of the Columbia, just as you would become tired of Caruso, or Clara Butt or Blanche Ring or Harry Lauder. You must judge of that for yourself.
But, if you have a longing for the old songs, the new songs, the popular songs, the standard songs, the classic songs—or instrumental selections—by the best artists the world knows,
Take the Columbia to Camp
You can buy a Columbia at the price that suits you best—always on the very easiest terms. Come in and choose the style you want from the innumerable styles and sizes of this famous instrument we are now showing in our specially constructed demonstration rooms. Hear it play the well-known Columbia Double-Disc Records. Then, if you decide on an instrument, pay us a few dollars down and the instrument will be delivered where you indicate. You can clear off the balance at the rate of a few dollars a month.
We will always meet you more than half way; we will treat you right and make it as easy for you as possible; we will make it our business to see that you are absolutely satisfied.

DESCRIBES HIS CREW FOR THE COMMISSION

Capt. Dan McCaulay Provokes Laughter at Sealing Inquiry

JAPS USED GUNS AND ROAMED ABOUT

List of Schooners, Crews, Tonnage and Catches, 1894 to 1911, Presented

Capt. Daniel George McCaulay, whose potentialities as a story-teller have made him one of the most popular of the sealing captains of this port, was on the witness stand this morning at the sitting of the sealing commission. As was expected Capt. McCaulay gave some of the most amusing evidence that has been produced so far during the progress of the inquiry. Having been sealing from 1890 to 1906, when the restrictions forced him to retire and seek employment in some other line, Capt. McCaulay believes that he is entitled to compensation to the amount of $18,922.

There was much laughter in the court room when Capt. McCaulay, at the request of Mr. Curran, the representative of the government, gave the names of the crew of Indians he had out in 1894. Mr. Curran wished to find out if Capt. McCaulay was sure that he took out the same or different crews each year. After persistent questioning the claimant replied, "Oh! Yes, I remember the crew I had out in '94. They had those King George names. There was Tom, Dick, Sea Otter Bob, and then we had George Washington, and a McDonald and a Campbell, a Capt. Clarke, Dog and"—Much laughter had been provoked by this time, and when Capt. McCaulay started to give some of their real Indian names the stenographer gave up in despair.

Then the captain was asked as to where he gathered his crew. He told of one year getting some from Clayoquot, Ahousat, a couple of Hyades, and two Neah Bay siwashes. These names were new to the court, and in explaining the Neah Bay Indians, he said, "They're American citizens."

Thinks He is a Canadian.

Capt. McCaulay was asked as to his nationality, and he looked a little puzzled. "Well, I guess I'm a Canadian. I was born in Cape Breton, N. S., but before Confederation."

In 1887 Capt. McCaulay left Halifax in the schooner Araunah and arrived in Victoria, via the Strait of Magellan, in March of the following year. He went steamboating for two years and in 1890 started sealing. In 1891 he sealed in the Behring sea, and the two following years he was ordered to keep out of the Sea or he would be seized. Upon applying at the customs house for a clearance in 1894 he was not informed of the Paris Award Regulations, as no notification had been received at that time. He hunted up the B. C. Coast to fair weather grounds. On May 8 he met the British cruiser Hyacinth and Capt. May, her commander, ordered him home, saying he would be liable to seizure. He had his Indian hunters signed for the cruise, which previous to that time, extended from January to October. Then the cruises had to be broken.

A copy of the telegram sent by Sir Chas. Hibert Tupper, then Minister of Marine, to Mr. Milne, the inspector of Customs for Victoria, giving the information of the agreement reached between Canada and the United States regarding the awards, was presented by Capt. McCaulay.

Taken Away Best Months.

The claimant was emphatic in declaring that the government in excluding the sealers from Bering sea in May, June and July had taken away the three best months of the year. "Whoever legislated the matter, whether they know anything about the matter or not, took away the best months of the year in respect to weather," was the captain's statement.

In 1898 and 1899 Capt. McCaulay noticed that the seals were getting a little wilder but he did not notice any less in the sea. Owing to the Indians becoming disgusted with their small catches great difficulty was experienced in getting crews. In 1902 the witness was unable to get any native hunters as they stampeded to the Fraser River canneries.

Japanese Use Firearms.

When questioned regarding the Japanese using firearms in Behring Sea, Capt. McCaulay said that he looked upon it as unfair. Here were the Japanese hunting the seals with shotguns and the Canadians had to use spears. The first brown men appeared in Behring Sea in 1903, and they increased rapidly. The British flag was restricted, but the Japanese could go wherever they wanted. British schooners could not use firearms, and were forced to keep 60 miles off the Pribyloff islands. The Mikado's sealers roamed wherever they liked, and used guns and ammunition.

Capt. McCaulay quit sealing in 1907. He told the court that he tried to get an Indian crew in 1907, but they refused to sign. He then went whaling for a year, and earned about $1,000. From 1908 till 1912 he was engaged in towing logs and made about $1,200 a year. His average income from 1894 till 1906 was about $1,500.

"What is your income now," Capt. McCaulay was asked.

"I haven't any," he replied.

The claimant explained that he had a little money tucked away, and was not in a hurry to get another job. He emphasized the fact that sealing was his way of making a living, and that the government had taken away his chief means of livelihood. "I would have been sealing yet had it not been for the restrictions," said Capt. McCaulay. My income might also have amounted to $2,000. It's hardly fair to peddle away a man's business to some other nation and throw the man on the beach.

"We sealers made it possible for Canada to enter this agreement. Now that the government is getting something out of it they ought to compensate us."

Capt. McCaulay then went on to declare that the Canadian government could give away the salmon industry in just the same way.

When he had finished, Mr. Justice Audette remarked, "This has all been interesting."

The Weather Problem.

Mr. Curran tried to find out from the witnesses as to whether the weather interfered with the catches or not. Capt. McCaulay said that it did to a certain extent, but that if they got bad weather in one place they looked for fine weather in another quarter. "We never stayed home on account of the weather," he said.

Mr. Curran wanted to know if the seal herd was diminishing, but Capt. McCaulay said that he could not say, as he had never seen the herd together. In 1906, the last year he was out, he saw just as many seals from his vessel as he had seen in former years. Then he said: "Of course, the sealing men never worried over the seal herd; it was the government."

Previous to the hearing of Capt. McCaulay's claim, the claim of Capt. Brown, which was in progress yesterday afternoon when the court adjourned, was finished.

Thos Roberts, clerk in the customs house, presented a statement showing the schooners, number of their licenses, tonnage of vessels, the crews, white and Indian, and the catches of each schooner for every year from 1894 to 1911.

The court adjourned until Monday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

MANY VESSELS ARE DUE IN NEXT WEEK

Makura From Australia; Japan, Panama Maru and Other Liners From Orient

After an unusually quiet period in shipping circles the coming week promises to bring a considerable number of deep sea bottoms to Victoria. Apart from the Celtic King, under charter to the Maple Leaf line, which is overdue, Tuesday will see the arrival of the Canadian-Australian liner Makura with a large number of passengers. Many Antipodeans are glad to escape the rainy season and spend a few months in Europe at this period, returning by the Suez canal.

The Hamburg-American liner Ferd Laeisz, third of the series in the Pacific trade, is also due on that day, but it is not known what cargo she has for this port. The Osaka steamer Tacoma Maru is outbound on that day, and will have a considerable cargo of manufactured goods from American makers for the Oriental trade.

From the Far East the Empress of Japan, Capt. Dixon Hopcroft, will show up on Wednesday. This will be the second time on which the commander brings a white liner in to Victoria since he succeeded Capt. Robinson, promoted to the Empress of Asia, which arrives here six weeks hence on her maiden trip. It is also the first occasion since the new schedule was inaugurated that the port has received two Canadian Pacific Oriental steamers in successive weeks, the Monteagle having arrived here on Monday. The start on the new Empresses has rendered this fact a possibility.

On Wednesday the Monteagle, now loading up in Vancouver, will also get away for the Orient, having made a brief stay in British Columbian ports on this occasion. Mrs. Davison has joined the commander since his arrival, having followed the captain on the Awa Maru. The Osaka liner Panama Maru is due in on Thursday from Oriental ports.

So far as public attention is concerned, the arrival of H. M. S. New Zealand on Friday will arouse the maximum of interest. The Canadian Pacific has given notice that the Princess Charlotte will be withdrawn from the ferry service to make a special trip down the straits to meet the battle cruiser. As she has a day capacity of some 1,500, it is expected that every ticket will be sold before the dreadnought puts in an appearance. The battle cruiser's arrival has aroused a great amount of interest locally.

Another deep sea vessel to arrive will be the Harrison liner Candidate, From Antwerp and Liverpool, on her way to Vancouver with general cargo, she reached San Francisco on Thursday to unload. She is due on Thursday, and will be followed by the Huntsman, which left Liverpool on July 12, and later by the Architect. The last named is due to leave the Mersey on August 9, and the Crown of Seville is billed to sail on August 20.

The Glenartney will pass up to Vancouver at the end of the week with coal to bunker H. M. S. New Zealand, which will be delivered to the battle cruiser in Burrard Inlet. She left Cardiff on May 8 with 6,000 tons of Welsh coal and placed 2,400 tons on board the cruiser at Honolulu. After coaling the dreadnought she will precede her to Valparaiso, where the bunkers will again be filled.

STRATHNAIRN HELD AT PORT TOWNSEND

The British steamer Strathnairn is being held at Port Townsend, pending an official investigation into the allegation that the vessel is infested with rats. Surgeon Earle, of the United States public health service at Port Townsend, has received a report from the government laboratory in Seattle that the specimen rat sent from the Stratnairn was in such a state of decomposition that no satisfactory test for bubonic plague could be made, but that suspicious indications were found. Guinea pigs are to be experimented with, the ship meanwhile being isolated.

As a result of placing burning sulphur in her hold hundreds of rats were destroyed and others jumped in the bay and were drowned. She only recently left Vancouver for the Sound, where she discharged sugar for the British Columbia Sugar Refinery.

UPPERWORKS BURNED.

Boston, Mass., July 18.—The forward cabin of the steamer City of Bangor was burned away as she lay at her wharf to-day. The steamer arrived today from Bath, Maine, and had only her officers and crew on board. The body of a man, believed to have been either a deckhand or a fireman, was later found in the forecastle, and it is feared that other lives were lost. Several of the crew and some of the firemen were injured.

The Umatilla arrived yesterday afternoon fifteen hours late from San Francisco owing to the rough weather experienced. Captain Reilly held in close to shore to avoid as far as possible the full effect of the hurricane, which continued till the steamer passed in at Tatoosh. She brought 122 first class and 23 second class passengers and 40 debarked here. She discharged about 500 tons of Californian freight for this port.

ALTERNATIVE CLAIM BEFORE COMMISSION

Capt. T. H. Brown Testifies at Sealing Inquiry; Capt. G. Heater Also Heard

When testifying in his claim as a hunter before the sealing commission yesterday afternoon, Capt. Thos. H. Brown expressed the opinion that Mr. Justice Audette and Hon. A. E. McPhillips, K. C., who was representing him, would make rather poor boatpullers. The commissioner was explaining that the Sealing Treaty not only affected the sealers in the industry but also prevented anyone from entering the business.

"For instance, you can't go into sealing; neither can Mr. McPhillips nor myself go into it," remarked the commissioner.

"I'm afraid you'd make poor boatpullers," replied Capt. Brown with a twinkle in his eye. It roused considerable laughter and the court enjoyed the joke as well as the rest.

An interesting point was raised at the sitting in the afternoon, when Capt. Brown claimed compensation resulting from the seizure of the schooner Aurora, which he had under charter in the year 1896. Three days after he had entered Behring Sea a United States revenue cutter came alongside the sealer and three skins were found which had bullet holes in them. This was on August 3. Capt. Brown was forced to suspend operations and head for home. On arriving here his case was heard and he was acquitted. Capt. Brown entered a double-barrelled claim for the year 1896, claiming first 2,000 skins as master of the vessel at 50 cents a skin. If the court would not allow this he would fall back on 300 skins as a hunter at $3 a skin.

"I am sorry that I have no jurisdiction over seizures. I have only to consider claims for damages flowing from the regulations of the treaty." This was the remark of the commissioner.

Capt. Brown said that had it not been for the regulations prohibiting the use of firearms in the sea he would not have been seized. He thought that he had a good case.

"Yes, I shall have to consider this case," said the commissioner.

Capt. Brown's Claims.

Capt. Brown said that he was a native of Cape Breton, N. S., and started sealing in 1887. In 1894 he was a hunter on the Maud S., in which he owned an interest. His first claim was for $6,683 as owner. He thought that a fair average catch for his schooner each year was about 2,000 skins and consequently in filing his claim he had only set down for his estimated catch the difference between his real catch and the 2,000. In most cases his claims were light. Out of the six years he was owner, only on one year was he saved from digging down in his pocket. His share of the schooner cost him $1,385. The losses he sustained, he stated, were caused through the restrictions.

When Mr. Curran, representing the government, tried to draw out from him why the schooner E. B. Marvin might have taken 4,100 skins in 1894 and had only taken 2,000, both schooners being the same size, Capt. Brown stated that it depended a lot on the hunters. "The Marvin had more deck space than we had," said Capt. Brown, "and I think she had Indian hunters that year and we had white men. The hunters make all the difference in the world."

In 1898 Capt. Brown stopped the sealing business and started to work at odd jobs around town. In 1903 he went into the Klondike and was first mate and then master of sternwheelers operating on the Yukon. For the past five years he had been working on one of the Dominion government dredges here and at present received $160 a month.

As a hunter Capt. Brown claims compensation to the amount of $26,792. Capt. Brown gave his estimated catches for the years he was prohibited from using firearms in Behring Sea.

Capt. Geo. Heater.

Capt. Geo. Heater, now master of the fishing schooner Jessie, entered a claim for $37,890. He was one of the last men to leave the business, being forced to stop by the Pelagic Sealing Treaty of 1911. He now owns an interest in the schooner Jessie and he stated that he hoped to make some money in this business. He did nothing the first eight months after sealing stopped. Capt. Heater said that some trips in fishing were unprofitable and then others would yield good money. He had a lengthy record as a sealing master having been out every year from 1894 to 1901.

TALTHYBIUS IN TUESDAY PANAMA'S SMALL CARGO

The Blue Funnel liner Talthybius will be back from Vancouver on Tuesday to take her outgoing cargo aboard here. She will load quantities of lumber, whale oil and salmon here before going down the Sound.

The Panama Maru, which is to arrive Tuesday has a small passenger list and a small cargo for Victoria this time. There are 35 all told to disembark here, 18 of whom are Chinese, the others Japanese. There are only 200 tons of merchandise to be unloaded here, which is one of the smallest cargoes the Osaka line has brought to Victoria for some time.

The Tacoma Maru, which goes out on Tuesday will take on a quantity of sea-weed at this port. The Candidate of the Harrison line is expected in Thursday also to load lumber.

Both the Empress of Japan and the Panama Maru were spoken this morning by wireless at Triangle Island.

VADSO IN PORT.

For the first time for a considerable period the Union Steamship Vadso was to be seen in the Inner Harbor here yesterday, when she was loading for northern British Columbia ports. She stranded several months ago in Baynes Sound, and was later offered for sale by her owners, but as no bids came in for the vessel, she was repaired and has just been put in service again.

OUR LETTER BOX

Letters for publication in Daily Times must be received at the Times office not later than the day before the day of publication. When received later they will be held over until the following day.

While unobjectionable anonymous communications will be published, the name and address of every writer of such letters must be given to the editor.

GOLDEN FAVORED.

To the Editor:—What has Golden done that it should be the object of such favoritism by the education department? In 1907 it passed up 5 pupils on the rural set of entrance questions and got a bronze medal, whilst Chilliwack with 18 and Spallumcheen with 10 passed up got no medal. Golden in 1908 passed up 10 pupils again on the rural set of questions and again got a medal; but no medal for Chilliwack city with 17, nor for Chilliwack (rural) with 15 passed up. In 1909 Golden passed up 7 pupils, again on the rural set and again got a medal.

In 1912 Golden's 6 pupils tried to pass on the urban set of questions, and then only 1 passed, getting 596 marks. This year, 1913, Golden is again allowed to pass up the pupils on the rural set, 9 passed, and the head pupil got 821 marks.

Golden has had a high school since 1907, and has three teachers in its graded school. It should therefore have passed up its pupils all those years on the urban set of questions. A great many rural schools with only one teacher have to pass up their pupils on the urban set.

Ought not both Golden and the education department to be pitied?

OH, GROUCHER!

To the Editor: Yes, sir, "Groucher is still grouching," as you correctly print over my last contribution.

But you should hear his laughter also, and the giggling of Victoria (at the morning paper) when in extreme cases you quietly take from your sleeve a polished stone that has been there since 1908.

I ask you how could any professional groucher, such as I am, conscientiously abstain from grouching when, as at present, the vicious annual tea-cup storm is raging on the first page (first column) of our leading Conservative journal, in view of the coming municipal elections?

If people in Scotland, and some in other places, are permitted by law to exhibit their knees below their skirts, where is the consistency of preventing people in other places from putting their feet only nine inches below the bottom of their skirts?

I have a lot of grouching in reserve for the bathing visitors also, where the unclothed young man, dry or dripping, comes lounging along with the proverbial cigarette between first and second fingers, through crowds of fully-dressed people.

The sham-happy-optimist who pretends to see nothing wrong in Victoria but the rise in beef is a tiresome character that admits of much "grouching."

GROUCHER.

In an application for the temporary transfer of a public house license, at Stratford police court, it was said the place would be managed by a woman. Mr. Eliot Howard (chairman)—"Very often a woman can manage quarrelsome people better than a man. 'What I can't do with my fists I can do with my tongue,' is an old Cornish saying."

SPORTING NEWS

GUNNER ROSS LOSES TO THE HARDY TAR

Seaman Wright Surprise of V. A. C. Smoker Last Night; Hicks Defeated Moran

Surprises were in order at the Victoria Athletic Club smoker last night, and the greatest of all was the outpointing of Gunner Ross, the hitherto undefeated heavyweight of Vancouver Island, by Seaman Wright, the clever H. M. S. Shearwater boxer. This bout, which was the feature of the card, was allowed to proceed by the police after Wright had taken an amateur declaration that he had never competed in a professional bout. The clash between the two heavies rounded out the card to a nicety, and the show provided four of the snappiest bouts that have ever been seen in the capital. It was a real treat in the manly art, and while the crowd was not as large as it might have been, doubtless due to the announcement that the bouts would not be permitted, the enthusiasm was there and the clever work of the ring stars created intense excitement all through the programme.

Wright Won Fairly.

Wright won a clean-cut decision over Ross in three rounds, out-boxing the garrison idol at long range and cleverly evading Ross' attempts to land a slumber punch. The win of the sailor was the biggest dope upset in recent years, but Ross was not exactly in the best of shape to stand a tough contest such as he was subjected to last night. The gunner was not popping over any sleep pills last night, the sailor sidestepping many a wallop that carried the official count with it. Aside from the victory of Wright, the bout was one of the hardest fought contests between heavies that Victoria fans have viewed for a long time. Wright had the cleverness and had Ross groggy several times with his left jabs to the face and jaw. His foot work was cleaner, also, and the judges had no hesitation in giving him the decision.

Hicks a Winner.

Uppercut Hicks won a popular victory over Johnny Moran with his aggressiveness and loop-the-loop punches that had Moran in difficulty towards the close of the bout. Moran was cleverer than Hicks, but could not stand the punishment that the former J. B. A. A. star handed out, with the result that Hicks was all over him at the close. It was a nicely fought exhibition, and Hicks' victory made a big hit with the fans. Hicks has developed wonderfully in the last few months and looks better every time out. He will be matched with one of the best welters that the club can secure for the next bout, and he should rapidly climb into the top notch division.

Eddie Krouse and Roy Baker went four rounds at a lively clip in the curtain raiser, the youngsters being fast and clever, while both showed a willingness to make the bout as interesting as possible. Krouse won the decision on his leading, but the judges sent the pair an extra round to decide the winner. This bout was the fastest of the night, and the boys certainly showed all the ear marks of coming stars in the amateur ranks.

Jerry Sullivan lost to H. Johnson in a tough contest, the boys tearing into one another from the tap of the gong. Johnson was the more finished boxer, though Sullivan was always coming back for more. The latter missed repeatedly in trying to land a haymaker, and it was the jabbing of Johnson that won him the bout.

Complete Results.

All boxers were examined by Medical Health Officer Dr. Hall, before entering the ring, while the bouts were under police supervision. The officials and complete results were:

Heavyweight—Sailor Wright defeated Gunner Ross, three rounds, decision.

150 pounds—Uppercut Hicks defeated Johnny Moran, three rounds, decision.

115 pounds—H. Johnson defeated J. Sullivan, three rounds, decision.

105 pounds—Ed Krouse won from Roy Baker, four rounds, decision.

Referee, Hank Bennett; judges, M. Condon and G. Sedney; timer, Cal Campbell.

PLAYERS FINED.

New York, July 19.—President Lynch of the National League yesterday fined Fielder Cathers and Second Baseman Magee of the St. Louis club $25 each for their fist fight at the Polo grounds. Mr. Lynch announced that the offence warranted suspension, but in view of the crippled condition of the St. Louis club he would not impose the additional penalty.

CLOTHIERS WON.

Those old rivals, Short, Hill & Duncan and Fitzpatrick & O'Connell's, engaged in a fierce batting contest on Beacon Hill Thursday night, the clothing models emerging victorious by the score of 15 to 13 at the end of seven innings. Harry Hanover twirled great ball for the Irish firm, while Fultcher and Bowers supplied the curves for the jewelers.

HAVENS WINS RACE.

Detroit, Mich., July 19. — Beckwith Havens completed a flying boat trip from Chicago to Detroit hourly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He followed the route planned for the Chicago-Detroit aviation cruise and covered 900 miles. It is said to have been the most remarkable trip ever undertaken by flying boats.

CRISP REPORTS.

Tacoma, July 19.—Joe Crisp joined the Tacoma Tigers yesterday. He was signed by Manager McGinnity several days ago. He was formerly in the major league, but has lately been with the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast League as a catcher.

COAST LEAGUE WILL NOT GET TWO TEAMS

Rumor Vancouver and Seattle Will Go Over Not Well Founded

There is nothing in the rumor that Seattle and Vancouver are billed for the Coast league next season, according to the statements of Bob Brown, of the Vancouver club, and L. A. Wattelet, president of the Victoria Bees. When D. E. Dugdale, president of the Seattle team, announced last Sunday that plans for his new ball park had been completed and work would start at once, the rumor was started that the Coast league intended to grab the Seattle and Vancouver clubs. According to Messrs. Brown and Wattelet, the move has never been thought of and is not at all likely to occur.

First of all, it would be necessary for the Coast league to purchase the territory from the Northwestern league and as these cities are the mainstay of Fielder Jones' organization, there is little fear of the other clubs in the league agreeing to allow such valuable towns to get out of the circuit. Then again, Joe McGinnity was induced to locate in Tacoma this season and the Iron Man spent something like $40,000 in fixing up a new ball park and getting a team together. He could certainly never consent to the Coast club stepping in and grabbing off all the cream. Victoria owners are also to be considered and the Spokane Traction Company also has a say in the matter since it bought out Joe Cohn. Looking at the deal from every angle, it does not appear to have a chance of going through.

As to the purchase of the ball club, George Young, who was greatly interested in the team, states that he has abandoned the idea for the time being, though he may take the matter up later. There are several other parties, however, who have written the officers of the club and a deal which involves the transfer of the stock or a half share in it, may be announced in a week or so.

TO-DAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1825.—Jem Ward became heavyweight champion by defeating Tom Cannon in 10 rounds at Warwick, England. Ward was a clever and powerful fighter, and had the most beautifully proportioned body ever seen in a ring. He retained possession of the title for thirteen years, when he retired without having known defeat. Deaf Burke laid claim to the championship, but soon lost it to the acrobatic Bendigo, who was the Napoleon of the ring in the matter of strategy and generalship.

1905.—Buddy Ryan knocked out George Peterson in the 20th round at San Francisco.

1908.—Jack Dillon defeated Joe McAree in 6 rounds at Indianapolis.

HOWARD IN TROUBLE.

Winnipeg, July 19.—Army Howard, the crack sprinter of western Canada, and one of the Dominion's representatives at the last Olympic games, must face a charge of having received $25 for running at the Scottish games, and if he is unable to clear himself he will be driven from the amateur ranks. An affidavit has been laid with the Manitoba branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and, in the words of President Boyd, "It is strictly up to Howard to show that the charge is false."

BAYLEY WILLING TO POSTPONE BOUT

"It's pretty tough not to be able to have a say in the preparations, but I am going through with this match at all costs just to get a chance at Valse once more," was the statement of Joe Bayley to the Times last night, when queried as to his match with Valse. Bayley is now in training at the Four-Mile House and will remain in the country until he leaves for Vancouver a couple of days before the fight. A despatch from Vancouver yesterday gave the date of the bout as August 1, just two weeks from last night. Immediate preparations will be made in the Bayley camp to have the ex-champion in grand trim for the bout.

Valse is ready and willing to box Bayley again and full 500 Renton and Seattle boxing enthusiasts will be along with him when he hooks up with Bayley. The bout is set for the evening to give all the local fans a chance to see it. A lot of folks cannot get away to an afternoon show and they want to take in this battle. The books will go fifteen rounds at 133 pounds ringside, and they will both be in the finest condition of their lives. Bayley will have George Paris in charge of his training camp at Victoria and he will be in perfect trim, something that he was far from in the last bout, when he enters the ring at Brighouse in two weeks.

This morning Pollack, manager of Freddy Welsh, received the following wire from Foley:

"Must receive $15,000 guarantee for Ritchie with privilege of 50 per cent of the gate and cannot accept less than 50 per cent of the pictures and all other concessions. Also round trip transportation for three. Will join Ritchie Saturday for twelve days' motor trip through to Los Angeles, so answer immediately."

CALIFORNIA ATHLETES WILL COMPETE HERE

Another well-known athlete who announces that he will compete in the sports during carnival week is Jack Morris, the California all-round athlete. Morris recently competed against Thompson, the new world's champion, and, although defeated, made a fine showing against his more experienced adversary. Although Morris is not yet so well known in the gallery of athletic stars in California, the sport followers think in time he will be the world's champion.

Duncan Gillis, the Vancouver star, and many others will compete against Morris. Besides Morris there are at least half-a-dozen other southern stars who will make the journey to Victoria. They will also stay over and compete in the Canadian championships to be held in Vancouver on September 6.

Edmonton is also sending athletes to compete at the Canadian championship meet. Many champions of the prairies will make the trip to the coast. For the contests between the various fire departments, Medicine Hat hopes to send a contingent.

TWENTY-FIVE INNINGS WITHOUT A SCORE

Yesterday was the twenty-second anniversary of the ball game that made North Dakota famous.

By reason of that historic contest the names of Fargo, Grand Forks and Devil's lake are known to hundreds of thousands who otherwise would have lived and died in utter ignorance of the existence of these cities.

It was a great advertising stunt that was pulled off on July 18, 1891, when the Fargo and Grand Forks teams of the Red River Valley league played a twenty-five inning scoreless game at Devil's Lake, N. D. The players who participated in that pastime have long since vanished from baseball ken, and the league is dead and buried and forgotten, but the fame of that game still pieces clattering down the corridors of time. Never again, perhaps, will the fans "lamp" such a score as this:

Grand Forks—
0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Fargo—
0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

The long distance record established by this contest stood until May 31, 1909, when the Bloomington and Decatur, Ill., clubs of the Three-I League played twenty-six innings at Bloomington, Ill., Decatur finally winning 2 to 1.

The Grand Forks-Fargo clash still stands, however, as the longest runless game in the record book.

Other extraordinary long contests include the following:

American League, at Boston, 1906—Philadelphia 4, Boston 1, twenty-four innings.

Pacific Coast League, at Sacramento, 1911—Sacramento 1, Portland 1, twenty-four innings.

West Virginia League, 1910—Clarksburg vs. Mannington, tie, twenty-four innings.

At Boston, 1877—Manchester professionals 0, Harvard 0, twenty-four innings.

Missouri Valley League, at Pittsburg, Kan., 1903—Pittsburg 5, Joplin 4, twenty-one innings.

National League, at Cincinnati, 1902—Cincinnati 7, Chicago 7, twenty innings.

National League, at Philadelphia, 1905—Chicago 2, Philadelphia 1, twenty innings.

WILLARD CHALLENGES PELKEY.

San Francisco, July 19.—Arthur Pelkey, claimant to the white championship of the world, will meet any fighter in the world, but not until he has completed his theatrical engagement, according to Tommy Burns, former champion, who is looking after Pelkey's interests. Burns and Pelkey arrived from the north and were met by Jess Willard's manager with a challenge, but Burns declared that for the present Pelkey was merely an actor.

PHILLIES WANT SUGGS.

Philadelphia, July 19. — It was said here yesterday that the Cincinnati and Philadelphia National clubs are negotiating for an exchange of players. It was reported that Pitcher Suggs, of Cincinnati, may come to Philadelphia in exchange for one of the utility men.

TOMAN'S EYESIGHT COST BEES A GAME

Vancouver Lucky to Win Yesterday; Umpire Nearly Mobbed on Leaving Field

Jimmy Toman handed Bob Brown's Beavers a game at the ball park yesterday afternoon on about the worst decision that this usually reliable arbiter ever handed out. The play broke against the Bees in the ninth session, with the score four to threee in favor of the home club, and the Terminals came through with a brace of runs after Konnick had been given a life on Toman's punk verdict, while Doty put the clamps on and shut Victoria's hopefuls out without a run in the ninth, the Beavers winning 5 to 4. Toman was given a rush as he made his way to the club house, and had it not been for quick action on the part of Charlie Swain and Bert Delmas, there might have been a vacancy in the ranks of the Northwestern Umpires. The little arbiter was being roughly handled when the Bee captain and his hefty outer-gardener broke through the crowd and landed Toman safely in the sheiter of the dressing room.

Narveson in Shape.

Narveson twirled one of the best games that he has shown this year, and certainly deserved to win yesterday's conflict. He had the Beavers breaking their backs at the start of the game and while he weakened in the eighth, he would have emerged with flying colors had not Toman overlooked Delmas' putting the ball on Konnick in the ninth with two gone. This would have retired the Beavers with Victoria one run to the good, but no such luck for the hired help. Schultz, the pitcher, who was subbing for Kipert in centre field, came through with a clean single to right and two runs pattered across the pan, bringing Vancouver's total up to five. Victoria had a chance in the ninth when Swain got a hit with one gone, but Meek popped up and Alberts fanned for the third out. It was a tough game to lose, and it is in order to chalk up a win for umpire Toman.

Brottem's Hemers.

Narveson twirled almost perfect ball for eight and one-third innings, and Kantlehner who relieved him was equally good. Clarke had little more than his glove, and was hooked in the fifth to allow Doty to go in, the latter proving a complete puzzle to the Bees. Brottem hammered out two home runs, while Emil Frisk also dropped the horse hide out of the lot. The Bees played snappy ball, Rawlings making a bare handed stop in the third that bore the big league brand. The hitting was about even, each club netting eight hits.

Ed. Kippert, Vancouver's leading slugger and centre fielder, sustained a broken nose when a hard hit to centre by Delmas, took a bad bound and hit him in the face. He had to retire from the game, Dr. Hall attended to the injured player, but he will be out of the game for several days.

UMPIRE WAS SCOUT.

Jerry Eddinger, recently resigned as an umpire in the Northwestern league to become a scout, pulled off a novel stunt in the Three-I the other day. Eddinger wanted to get a line on Pitcher Harry Jasper, and to get the proper angle he secured consent from President Tearney to umpire a game in which Jasper itched. Thus, standing behind the plate with his eagle eye on Jasper's deliverings he was able to judge his ability better than if he were watching from the grand stand, the point of vantage of the ordinary scout.

CHICAGO GETS ALLEN.

Minneapolis, July 19.—Nick Allen, a Northern League catcher, has been sold to the Chicago American League club. The price paid has not been made public. Allen will join the White Sox at once.

POWELL STARRED IN FINAL SERIES

Wimbledon, Eng., July 19.—Maurice E. McLoughlin and R. Norris Williams, of the United States, yesterday beat R. B. Powell and B. P. Schwengers, of the Canadian team, in the first two singles matches of the final round in the preliminary contest for the Davis lawn tennis cup. Both won their matches in three straight sets, McLoughlin being victorious by the score of 10-8, 6-1, 6-4, and Williams by 6-4, 6-2 and 6-4. The doubles match will be played to-day, and if necessary two further singles matches will be played on Monday. Victory in one more match will enable the United States team to play England in the challenge round for the trophy.

In the protracted first set McLoughlin approached his usual form only in his service and smashing. He won several love games on his service, Powell allowing the terrific first ball from the American to slide off his racquet every time. The Canadian attempted lobs, but they were met with killing smashes. Otherwise, McLoughlin was not brilliant, keeping near the base line and being content to volley back and forth. Powell played a plugging game, but occasionally electrified the grandstand with telling drives. Powell kept up his plucky game in the second set, but without avail. McLoughlin was himself again and kept the spectators gasping at his daring shots. He won point after point by dropping the ball just over the net, while the Canadian nearly broke his heart in trying to reach it from the base line, but notwithstanding the one-sided score of the six games to one, this set was much better played than the first.

In the third and final set McLoughlin's tennis was brilliant but erratic. He fumbled a number of easy returns, but redeemed himself by sending back others which seemed almost impossible. Time after time he lured Powell from the base line to the net by short drops and then lobbed the Canadian's return just out of his reach. In this set he outdid himself by killing all of Powell's offerings which crossed the net at a height of more than three feet.

In attempting a difficult return from the sixth game McLoughlin fell heavily on his face. He was badly shaken up and took several minutes to recover. He lost a point, but finally won the game.

BREAKS RECORD.

Vancouver, July 19. — Bob Burman, the motor car racer yesterday broke the Canadian record at Minoru park by making a mile in 55 4-5 seconds. The previous record was made by Burman in Montreal in 59 seconds.

In the second trial the speed king lowered by three-fifths of a second his own new-made record of a few hours before, completing the mile in 55 1-5 seconds.

His time by quarters was: First quarter, 15 seconds; second quarter, 27 4-5 seconds; third quarter, 42 3-5 seconds; fourth quarter, 55 1-5 seconds.

HIGH-PRICED PACER.

Smith and Proctor, owners of Grand Opera, the speedy Toronto pacer, which made such a remarkable showing in the 2.20 pace at the Winnipeg Exhibition, were offered $20,000 for their wonderful speeder. Experts agreed that had the track been fast, Grand Opera would have negotiated the mile in 2.05, as the mark of 2.12½, made in the first heat, was fully as good as 2.05 under perfect conditions. Grand Opera will make his next start at Brandon on July 21 in the $3,000 stake race.

MORRIS TO FIGHT.

Joplin, Mo., July 19. — Negotiations have been completed, according to announcement here for a fifteen-round bout between Carl Morris, of Sapulpa, Okla., and Al Benedict, of New York, to be fought in Joplin July 25.

WHO'S WHO IN SPORTS

John McGraw, the greatest manager who ever led a baseball team to victory—(Hisses, jeers and pop bottles from the admirers of Mack, Chance, Dooin, Clarke and Stahl) will begin to-day the twelfth year of his regime as manager of the well known Giants.

It was eleven years ago to-day that Jawn took charge of the comic opera aggregation which then represented the American metropolis in the National League.

In the first game under his leadership the Giants were defeated by Philadelphia, 4 to 3. That one contest was all Jawn needed to get a line on his alleged "telent." The next day there were nine ex-Giants looking for jobs. Consternation filled the buzzum of the owner of the Giants when he heard of this wholesale "canning." He ventured to remonstrate.

"This so-called ball team," said Jawn, "although far be it from me to admit that it is such, is going to finish in the cellar anyway, and having the salaries of nine men less to pay isn't going to make it finish any lower. And it'll be a saving of money."

Jawn, although distinctively Irish, always was as canny as a Scotchman about spending money.

When the Little Napoleon had the Giants wished on him they were last in the league by the safe margin of fourteen games. They remained in the cellar the remainder of that season, proving that Jawn was a good prophet, but under his management the joke team, augmented by McGraw's former Baltimore teammates, Bresnahan, Cronin, McGinnity and McGann won half of the remaining games. The next year the Giants finished second, in 1904 they copped the pennant, repeated in 1905, and never since have they finished out of the first division.

Incidentally, since McGraw took charge, the United States mints have had to work nights to supply enough coin to pour into the coffers of the owners of the Giants. "Little Mac" has got his share—trust him for that—and in the eleven years he has amassed a snug fortune that runs up into the hundreds of thousands.

CALGARIAN PROTESTS.

A Calgary writer "calls" the Canadian League correspondent, who made a recent statement that if Bill Hurley's Saskatoon team won this year's race it would be Hurley's third straight pennant in the Western Canada. The Calgary men asks the correspondent to look up the dope and he will find that Julie Strieb and his Calgary Bronchos won the 1912 pennant. Saskatoon, however, was not in the league last year, and perhaps therefore does not consider the race as having been legitimate.

It is rumored that Johnny Rawlings, the star second-sacker of the Bees, is going to join the Seattle lineup. Secretary McConnell, of the Victoria club, denies the report.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Victoria's Chance for a Lacrosse Club.

Now that the Royals have been dropped by Con. Jones there is an excellent opportunity for Victoria's lacrosse backers to pick up a fine lacrosse club, one that could just about hold its own with the greatest teams of the day. The decision of the Vancouver amateurs to turn professional has saved the situation as far as Con. Jones is concerned, and the coming matches will mean quite a bit of money that the Vancouver mogul can save. City championship matches such as proposed will rouse a lot of interest, as the class of the Vancouver amateurs cannot be denied. With a couple of real stars, they should be easily able to hold their own with the pro.'s. Victoria has an amateur club that needs only a little strengthening to place it on a par with the V. L. A. and now is the time for the locals to make the break to the pro. ranks, if they are to have an even chance with the Mainland clubs.

Carnival Athletic Meet Contains the Class.

Victorians are in for a real treat when the Carnival track and field meet is held at Oak Bay under the auspices of the James Bay Athletic Association. The gathering will be a notable one. It is extremely doubtful if any Canadian club ever had the pleasure of staging such a meet as will be held here during the festival. Canada will be represented by such real champions as Hal. Beasley, Tommy Gallon, Will Chandler, Dune Gillis, McConnell and other coming stars, while Uncle Sam is sending no less than ten athletes from Seattle, a squad from Portland and eight Olympic athletes from 'Frisco. The events will come pretty near the record, and such a galaxy of cinder-path experts should attract a capacity crowd. The class and quality will be there and it is up to Victoria's athletic enthusiasts to provide the support. The granting of the British Columbia championships to the meet by the B. C. A. A. U. gives added honor to the different events.

United States Wins the Tennis Singles.

Canadians will indeed feel proud of the fight that the wearers of the Maple Leaf are making for the Davis cup, and while a victory for the American team appears a certainty in the present series with the bearers of the stars and stripes, the Canucks are fighting valiantly and are making their American cousins put forth all their tennis ability to win. R. B. Powell, especially, played in magnificent form and his work in his match with McLoughlin, the California wonder, shows that he is entitled to a place among the greatest tennis stars of the day. B. P. Schwengers also played a brilliant game, and with more experience he will prove a grand racquet expert. The Canadians played much better tennis than looked for and their ability to reach the finals is eloquent evidence of their tennis ranking.

KAISER NOT ANGRY WHEN CARICATURED

Collects Cartoons and Indexes and Classifies Them; Rents Rising in Germany

Berlin, July 19.—The impression generally prevailing in Germany that Emperor William becomes incensed every time he sees himself caricatured, is quite erroneous. It is in the class of popular misconceptions concerning the German Emperor, and has no foundation in fact. On the contrary, Emperor William finds much amusement in these caricatures, and he has made an extensive collection of them to which he is constantly adding. He makes selections from foreign papers as well as German, and has many American cartoons of himself properly indexed and classified. The signatures of the best American caricaturists are about as familiar to him as they are to most American newspaper readers.

The Emperor began this collection by acquiring a book of caricatures on himself by a Frenchman named Carteret. The sale of this volume in Germany was prohibited by the authorities immediately it appeared, but the Emperor, hearing of this restriction, sent for a copy, looked it over, and then ordered the prohibition removed. Carteret's sketches are the nucleus of his collection.

Up to the time of this incident the German comic press, more out of fear than reverence, had avoided all direct representation of the Emperor, but after the Carteret episode, German caricaturists became bolder. In [illegible] Kladderadatsch astonished its readers by publishing a caricature of His Majesty as a cuirassier, the face consisting of an interrogation mark in which the features of the Emperor were plainly discernable. Since then the German press has added many specimens to the Imperial collection, many of them by no means complimentary to the royal subject.

Strides in Commerce.

Germany has made prodigious strides in commerce and industry since 1888, and much statistical information showing these increases has been published in connection with the celebration of Emperor William's quarter century on the throne. It is now claimed that Germany is ahead of England as a producer of merchandise.

In the last twenty-five years Germany's imports have risen from $818,000,000 to $2,541,000,000, and her exports from $798,000,000 to $2,146,000,000. This foreign business affected shipping as follows: Tonnage movement in 1888, 42,000,000 tons; in 1912, 137,000,000. Coal, including lignite, was produced in 1888 to the extent of 81,000,000 tons; in 1912 the figures showed 259,000,000 tons. Crude iron produced in 1888, 4,300,000 tons; in 1912, 17,800,000 tons. Imports of raw cotton show equally interesting figures; 913,000 bales in 1888, as against 2,276,000 bales last year. Germany's great electrical industry has almost been created during the past twenty-five years, and the leading electrical manufacturing company of the country has increased its capital strength more than twenty fold since 1888.

The general machinery trade has been revolutionized, its product enormously increased, and the efficiency of all the leading industries of the country has been multiplied several times over by the introduction in the past twenty-five years of improved machinery. While the efficiency of the individual workman has been greatly enhanced by machinery, the number of working men and women also has been largely increased, as is evident from a gain of about 19,000,000 in the population of the Empire since 1888.

Rents Ris Fast.

Rentals on apartments and houses in the principal cities of Germany are rising faster than incomes, and as a result the percentage of house owners is steadily decreasing. A hundred years ago seventy per cent. of all Berliners owned their own homes; now only twelve per cent. do so. The average number of persons dwelling in one house in Berlin is 77, as against eight in London. Of all Germany's important cities, only Lubeck and Bremen still cling to the one-family house. Everywhere else the apartment house has become the rule.

In 1868 residents of Hamburg with incomes from $225 to $300 a year paid twenty per cent. of the total for rent; they now pay more than twenty-five per cent. The proportion of rent to income has risen in Breslau to thirty-four per cent. among persons with incomes of $1,000. It is not at all uncommon to find persons who pay more than a third of their entire income for rent alone, and in some cases the percentage reaches forty. It is doubtful if any other nation in the world pays such a high percentage of its income for housing. A Berlin authority estimates at 32.4 the average percentage paid for rent by those inhabitants of Schoneberg, a division of Berlin, whose incomes do not exceed $300 a year.

A Lieutenant's Pay.

The pay of a German lieutenant is not sufficient to support a family, and the army regulations, as is generally the case in European countries, forbid an officer's marriage without his superior's consent. This permission is given only when a bride with a stipulated minimum dowry is found. Former Lieutenant Hermann Bauer, of Dusseldorf, while still in active service, but at a time when his application to be permitted to resign had been handed in, married without the army authorities' consent. He has just been sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in a fortress.

When Justice Errs.

When German justice makes a mistake it pays for it. Johann Boyer became involved in a famous perjury case eighteen years ago, was convicted and served four years in prison. He protested his innocence, and finally, in 1911, had the case reopened and was acquitted. The provincial court at Dortmund has now granted him the sum of $5,200, with a pension of $475 a year until his sixty-fifth year, as recompense for his unjust incarceration.

Hoboes Unusually Numerous and Cheeky on Railroads This Time of the Year

If members of the tramp fraternity could be persuaded to do business with ticket offices the railroads of Canada would be a good many hundreds of thousands of dollars stronger in their sales each year, says the Hamilton Times. The decided action of the railways on the other side to go into this question has started the officials of the Grand Trunk thinking, and one of the principal officers of that company figured roughly what it cost the various concerns to transfer the perpetual motion demonstrators from one community to another. He estimated that the G. T. R. alone lost $200,000 annually in this respect. This does not include the wear and tear on bumpers and other parts of the rolling stock which are favored by the advocates of the fresh air flight.

Railway officials say that it would be impossible to estimate the amount of damage done to private property along the railroads by these long distance surveyors. They say the "hobo" may furnish a good laugh to persons who follow his antics in the comic supplements, but that he has long since ceased to be a joke so far as they are concerned; that at times he so far forgets himself as to insert himself into a loaded freight car, and that in instances too numerous to mention he has used a coupling pin to impress a brakeman with his importance.

A determined effort is to be made by the local officials to discourage his peregrinations, and the authorities are to be asked to lend a hand in providing him with a permanent residence in a restricted neighborhood where his travels will be limited to a few feet of space.

It is averred that the Grand Trunk has received the bulk of his patronage and the representatives of that company say they are willing to turn it over to any other road for the asking. Notwithstanding the fact that they have added to their private police force and scattered signs about their property forbidding familiarity with the rolling stock, the tramps continue to honor the road. Some of the regulars have gone so far as to solicit brakemen to reserve bumpers for them.

Many efforts have been made to rid the railroads of the undesirables, but the officials say they cannot get the persistent support of cities and towns along the line. The usual consequence is that they are arrested, given ten minutes to leave town, and then hurry to the railroad station and board an outgoing train. If they are arrested at the next stop the same procedure is followed.

"Yes, I saw the report of the action of the roads on the other side," observed B. Baggage, literary director of the Clinker Club, an organization which numbers among its members men who have a speaking acquaintance with every bumper in the country. "I only goes to show the ingratitude of some persons. The Grand Trunk should give our organization a vote of thanks instead of a roast. The fact that we are able to ride on the trucks of their cars shows that the roadbed is in good shape and is a splendid advertisement."

"Are you going to make any reply to the charges that you are a nuisance?"

"I have been directed to file a complaint with the Dominion railway commission. We had no intention of doing so, but the companies have forced our hand. A dozen of our members have reported that they rode all the way from Buffalo to Hamilton on the front end of the first baggage car without being drenched by the engineer. This is a plain violation of the law."

AMERICANS TRIUMPH IN DOUBLES TO-DAY

Wimbledon, Eng., July 19.—The United States Davis cup lawn tennis team to-day fought its way through the final round of the preliminary tournament, and by adding a victory over the Canadian team in the doubles to the two single matches won yesterday gained the right to challenge the English holders for possession of the international trophy.

Harold H. Hackett, of New York, and Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, represented the United States in to-day's match, and by brilliant team work scored in three straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 12-10, from R. B. Powell, the Canadian captain, and B. P. Schwengers, the Canadian singles champion.

The matches in the challenge round are to be played according to present arrangements, at Wimbledon on July 25, 26 and 28.

The United States will be represented by McLoughlin and Hackett, R. Norris Williams and Wallace F. Johnson.

The English defenders are C. P. Dixon, J. C. Parke, A. W. Gore and H. Roper Barrett.

NOT A TEAR WAS HEARD.

Little Sally had been to the dentist. She had dreaded the ordeal all the more because on a former occasion—despite all her good resolutions—she had howled lamentably in the course of his ministrations. But this time, says the Manchester Guardian, she returned bursting with pride and satisfaction and presented herself to claim the half-crown reward which is the usual tariff in the family.

"And were you very brave, Sally?" she was asked.

Sally drew herself up to her full height. "Not a tear was heard!" she announced impressively.

MR. ALVA PHILLIPS

Bristol, N. B., July 25, 1911.

"I am unable to say enough in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' as it saved my life and restored me to health, when I had given up all hope and when the doctors had failed to do anything more for me. I had a stroke of Paralysis in March, 1910, and this left me unable to walk or help myself, and the Constipation of the bowels was terrible. Nothing did me any good and I was wretched in every way. Finally, I took "Fruit-a-tives" for the Constipation, and it not only cured me of that trouble but gradually this fruit medicine toned up the nerves and actually cured the paralysis. Under the use of "Fruit-a-tives," I grew stronger and stronger until all the palsy and weakness left me. I am now well again and attend my store every day and all day.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that is made of fruit juices and tonics.

OPEN VERDICT RETURNED

No Evidence Available as to How Ernest Vanden Came to His End.

An open verdict was returned by the coroner's jury that yesterday afternoon inquired into the circumstances surrounding the death of Ernest Vanden, whose body was found floating in the harbor off Hospital Point on Thursday morning. There being no evidence as to the movements of the man after he left the office of Jones & Rant, Limited, two weeks before, it was impossible for the jury to arrive at any definite decision as to how he met his end.

Dr. Raynor gave testimony as to the cause of death as a result of his examination of the body. It was that of a well-developed man of thirty-five or forty years of age, he said, and there was no sign of any affection of the organs. There were no marks of violence and no evidence of poison, and all the indications pointed to the man having died of drowning.

C. B. Jones told the jury of Vanden's employment by his firm at Banfield, as reported in the Times yesterday, and of his being given a note to the foreman of work being done by the firm at the experimental farm at Sidney. When he left the office he was in good health and spirits, and it was with the intention of at once going out to Sidney. Mr. Jones was at a loss to explain how Vanden came to get in the water, as he was a sober, industrious man and would not have had any need to go near the harbor to get out to the work that was waiting him.

Antone Kerdelle testified to seeing the body in the harbor while he was fishing and to sending word to the police. The body was floating on the back and was fully dressed. He secured it and towed it to the shore to await the arrival of the police.

Acting-Sergeant Blackstock and Constable Wood described the recovery of the body and the search for information as to identity.

The jury consisted of John Mowat, foreman; Hugh Hutchinson, A. G. McCrimmon, Thomas McCall, L. S. Bush and J. McDonald.

In addition to a brother at Banfield it is thought that Vanden leaves a wife and child in Belgium whom he was saving up to bring out.

ORGANIZE FIRE BRIGADE.

Government Will Be Approached for Contribution to Buying Equipment for Sidney.

At a representative meeting of Sidney residents in Berquist hall last night five citizens were appointed a committee to organize a volunteer fire brigade. The meeting was enthusiastically in favor of taking immediate steps to organize the young men of town into a fire protective corps now that a water service had been procured. The problem of financing the undertaking was discussed from all sides and the committee will look into this. The government will be asked for a contribution and a private subscription will be taken up also to buy the equipment.

The committee composed of George Cochrane, J. B. Kelly, F. A. Kelly, Captain Byers and A. L. Wilson will enlist members, raise the necessary money and appoint a chief of the new brigade. It is anticipated that the members of the athletic association will join the brigade, practically in a body.

English Beauty Tells Complexion Secrets

("Elise" in American Home.)

Through a fortunate meeting with an English lady, noted for her dazzling complexion, I recently learned the full meaning of that old adage, "Beauty is but skin deep." She taught me how to remove my muddy old skin, revealing the young and beautiful skin underneath. The process is so simple, harmless and inexpensive, I'm sure you'll be glad to know about it. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store and apply nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so. Every morning in washing off the wax, tiny particles of worn-out cuticle come off, too. The action is so gentle and gradual, there's no discomfort. It's a wonderful treatment, as it not only peels off the faded or discolored skin, but all of its defects, as chaps, roughness, freckles, pimples, blotches, blackheads.

I am indebted to the same lady for a remarkable wrinkle-removing formula. One ounce powdered saxolite is dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Used as a face bath, this is so effective that just one application causes the finer lines to disappear, and soon even the deepest ones go.

KNIGHTED ADMIRAL ON HIS QUARTERDECK

King Performs Unique Ceremony on H. M. A. S. Battle Cruiser Australia

The King, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Sir George Reid, arrived at Portsmouth to inspect the new Australian battle-cruiser Australia. The visit was regarded as private, and there was little ceremony beyond the firing of a royal salute, says the Pall Mall Gazette.

It was one of the hottest mornings of the year when the King arrived. On the jetty were no guards of honor. Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux and his staff, with other distinguished officers, received the King and the Prince of Wales.

The Australia, with sun awnings spread and looking very spick and span, lay alongside the jetty. Her crew were drawn up in divisions, and a bluejacket guard of honor stood rigid on the quarter-deck as the King walked up the gangway. He was piped over the ship's side by the boatswain's mates.

Rear-Admiral Patey, who commands the Australian navy, welcomed the King as he stepped aboard the cruiser. Then the officers of the ship were introduced, and the King, accompanied by the Prince and Sir George Reid, inspected the crew at divisions. A fine set up body of men these Australian sailors are, and the King expressed his admiration of them.

His Majesty and the Crew.

His Majesty spoke to a great many of the seamen during his progress round the decks. Some, who were wearing medals, he asked about the service for which they got these decorations; to others he dropped a word of congratulation upon their smart appearance, and, going below, the King walked along the men' mess-deck, where stood the caterers beside piles of shining tins ready for dinner to be piped.

His Majesty also chatted with these men and remarked upon the comfortable appearance of their quarters. Next he went into the bakeries and the canteen, where he pointed out to the Prince of Wales how much better food was prepared than in his own days at sea, when officers got worse cooking than the men do now.

Going into the sick bay, the King visited the men who were lying ill there, and spoke words of encouragement to them. Several times the King made complimentary reference to the appearance of the ship and her crew.

Admiral Knighted.

The tour of the vessel over, the King was photographed on the quarter-deck with the officers. Then came a ceremony unique in modern days—namely, knighting by the King of an admiral upon his own quarter-deck. Calling Rear-Admiral G. E. Patey to him, the King bade him kneel. Then, taking a sword, His Majesty tapped him lightly on the shoulder, saying, "Rise Sir George Patey."

Just before leaving the ship the King said: "I wish you all a pleasant voyage and a happy commission." His Majesty then drove to Admiralty House to lunch with Sir Hedworth Meux, and afterwards paid a visit to the submarine depot at Fort Blockhouse.

FIRST THINGS

The first successful revolver or pistol with a rotating chambered breech, was the invention of Samuel Colt, who was born at Hartford, Conn., ninety-nine years ago to-day. Colt was the son of a manufacturer, and his inventive genius first found expression in his father's shop. He was sent to school at Amherst, Mass., but ran away to sea and made a voyage to India. On returning he was apprenticed to a chemist, but after which, under the name of "Dr. Coult," he visited all parts of the United States and Canada, lecturing on chemistry. He earned a considerable sum of money, which he spent in perfecting his invention of the revolver, the germ of which he had devised while on his voyage to Calcutta. He was only fifteen when he made his first model, in wood, which is still in existence. At twenty-one he patented his first revolving pistol in England, France and the United States. At this time he did not know that others had conceived the idea of a revolver, but, while such was the case, they were far more likely to kill the man who used them than the object aimed at. Colt's first factory was established at Paterson, N. J., but failed. Later he opened a plant in his native city and became wealthy from the sale of his invention. Colt also laid the first submarine cable, between Coney Island and New York, in 1843.

CAR DESIGNS WILL BE LITTLE MODIFIED

Designers Agree That Evolution of Automobile is Almost Complete

Most people can remember that after the diamond shaped frame of the safety bicycle came into vogue all other frames disappeared, and that the diamond rapidly became a standard which endures to this day and is likely to remain permanently for the bicycle, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. Automobile designers say that the automobile has now reached the stage of development attained by the bicycle when the diamond frame was adopted. The car of twenty years from now will be a better car in many ways than the car of to-day, but its main outlines are not likely to be radically different. In the opinion of most experts the great work of the future will be in the nature of refining and improving what there is already, rather than in new departures. There is some evidence in support of this belief with which the average man is familiar. He is aware that as far as general appearance is concerned there has been little change in the average car in the past three or four years.

Self-Starters.

The present season has witnessed the general adoption of many devices that are calculated to add to the convenience and comfort of automobile owners. This has been called the "self-starter" year, for this device is being incorporated in many makes of car, and self-starters are being attached to cars originally constructed without them. Strictly speaking, the self-starter is not a novelty, for as many as seventeen different models were exhibited in the Paris automobile show in 1905. None of them was good enough to win instant recognition, and for the past six or seven years hundreds of engineers have been at work improving the self-starter, until now it is so far developed as to be a feature of more than half the 1912 models. That it is not yet perfect is dumbly hinted at by the crank that even the self-starting car is equipped with. Some thing may happen to temporarily disable the best self-starter, and it is well to be on the safe side.

The Enclosed Car.

Another development in automobile designing is that of the car for all sorts of weather, or in other words, the enclosed car. Electric coupes and limousines are not a novelty, but the huge berline is, and is supplying a growing demand for a car in which the driver is enclosed as well as the other occupants. There is also a demand for smaller cars driven from the inside, that many manufacturers are catering to, some of them ingeniously constructing cars that are completely enclosed in rough weather, and that can be turned into ordinary roadsters or touring cars when desired. The fore door seems to have come to stay as well as the scuttle dash. It is interesting to recall that some of the earliest cars were built with doors for the front seat, but so uncertain were the earlier automobiles, and so frequently did their drivers find it necessary to step in and out, that the fore doors were found to be a nuisance and they disappeared. Two or three years ago they found themselves in fashion again and they promise to remain.

A Ventilation Problem.

The adoption of the fore door has created other problems that are now occupying the attention of the designers. It is necessary that there should be a system of ventilation for the front part of the car, since without it the heat would be almost intolerable in hot weather. Some makers have solved the problem of summer heat simultaneously with that of winter cold, and have ventilating systems that admit air to the fore part of the car in summer, and transfer some of the waste heat of the engine to the occupants of the car in the winter. The adoption of the enclosed car has led to placing the speed levers and brakes inside, and in some places they have been placed in the middle of the car instead of outside on the right hand. Thus it is possible for the driver to get in or out of either door, and to manipulate the levers with his left hand and do his steering with the right. There is also to be noticed a tendency to reduce the number of levers and pedals required for the control of the car.

Other Improvements.

Larger wheels and wider tread tires are also, in the opinion of some manufacturers, improvements that are destined to become general, although they do not foreshadow any decrease in the price of tires, which remains a fixed problem for car users of moderate means. A device that may become popular is a governor something like that of a steam engine. The governor may be set for any given speed and when surpassed the power is automatically shut off. The mechanism is stored in a box, and the owner of the car carries the key in his pocket, so that his joy-riding chauffeur may be restricted to any speed the master thinks desirable. A device predicted for next year is one that will register the quantity of gasoline on hand and indicate the condition of the lubricating oil supply. There remains for the engineers of the future the question of power transmission. New ideas on this important matter are eagerly sought after, not only by automobile engineers, but by engineers everywhere who realise the possibilities of improvement that lie in this direction.

CARS IMPROVE HEALTH

Use of Automobiles in Cities Causes to Decline in Disease.

Apart from its virtues as an instrument of outdoor pleasure, with the sunlight and fresh air that go with it, the automobile, especially in large cities, is being looked upon by health authorities as the greatest single factor of modern times in the attainment of municipal cleanliness. When the motor vehicle finally drives the horse from the larger cities, it will relieve the streets of one of the greatest sources of refuse, and will bring about an appreciable reduction in the expense for street cleaning. But, more important still, the disappearance of the horse from the big centres of population will bring about the removal of stables, thus ridding the public of the constant menace of the horse and house-fly, which are the chief carriers or propagators of typhoid fever and kindred diseases.

It is a well-known fact that New York, with its thousands of pleasure and commercial automobiles, is a much healthier city than it was a decade ago, and this improvement in the sanitary conditions of the largest city in the United States is ascribed to the growing use of motor-driven equipment and the consequent decrease in the use of horse-drawn vehicles.

The same is true of every large city, and it is not an impossibility that the not distant future may witness the enactment of health laws that may prescribe the limits in which horse-drawn equipment may be operated in those communities—that is to say, before many years it will have become unlawful to use the disease-breeding horse in the residence and hotel sections, and in other sections only under the strictest sanitary regulations.

TO CLEAN WINDSHIELDS.

Automobiles now afford such good weather protection, says the Horseless Age, with their windshields, tops and side curtains, that it would be a real pleasure to drive through a rainstorm on tolerably good roads, if it were not for the fact that the rain covers the windshield with fog and obscures the view. Various mechanical devices have been invented to clear the windshield periodically by means of a sort of squeegee, but there is little inclination on the part of the motorists to carry devices of this sort for which he has need only on rare occasions.

The formation of the fog can be prevented by smearing over the glass a mixture of kerosene and glycerine in equal proportions. This will cause the rain drops to roll right off as soon as they strike the glass. Kerosene is generally carried in the side lamps and glycerine can be obtained in any drug store, but it would not be a bad idea for those who drive constantly to carry a bottle of the mixture ready prepared.

DRIVER STARTLED HIMSELF.

Westphalia is particularly proud of some of its echoes. In fact, in this district originated the tale of the man shouting out of his window at night and having the echo return the next morning to wake him. The latest tale has a much quicker echo, however. It is said that an automobile driver, on approaching a sharp bend in the road sounded his horn. The echo came back so loud it was mistaken for the sound of a horn on another car coming around the bend. It so startled the driver to hear himself confronted suddenly by another car that he lost control of his machine and ran into a tree.

"TWO THINGS CANNOT OCCUPY, ETC.

This car, it is supposed, rushed down the hill to obtain help from the fire department for the car shown in the other picture herewith, and, in the dark, ran off Tillicum road into two telegraph poles, snapping one off like a stick of sealing-wax, and shivering the other from top to bottom. The driver, W. Oliff, was seriously injured, although his companion escaped unhurt. The accident happened scarcely a quarter of a mile distant from the other wreck, and within a short time of the fire, and crowds of motorists stopped to look at both cars during the day.

A remarkable thing was that, despite the sharp concussion, none of the tires were punctured.

COMPARES SYSTEMS OF TWO COUNTRIES

Efforts of France and United States at Road-building Summed Up

"If France, with about four times the area and four times the population of New York State, can adequately and economically provide and maintain from a centralized source a national roads system of 24,000 miles, it is not unreasonable to contend that the same thing can be accomplished for the whole United States," asserts Lewis R. Speare, of Boston, former president of the American Automobile Association.

"France admittedly has the best roads system so far devised and its national roads constitute about 6½ per cent. of the 365,000 miles in the whole country. The national roads, maintained entirely by the government, are constructed forty-two feet wide between ditches, and lead from the capital to the principal cities, ports and commercial centres and between the principal cities. With the departmental or state roads and commercial roads of different classes, the national government has nothing to do except to determine their width, which is fixed by general laws according to their classification.

Comparison of Roads.

"The United States has two and a half times the population of France and about six times the road mileage. To balance this difference, a series of national roads which would connect our capitals and principal cities would amount to about 2½ per cent. of the 2,200,000 miles of roads in this country, as compared with the 6½ per cent. in France, bringing the mileage of national roads per person in the United States about the same as in France. With our enormous resources awaiting development by the extension of our road systems, there seems no reason why we should not proceed with the work of building national roads.

"The idea of building up a political machine out of a road construction bureau does not deserve consideration. In all of the important government work being carried on, it seems the policy of all parties to see that it is conducted economically and honestly, whatever party chances to be in power. A fair instance of that is the revalution of the railroads of the country, which is just about to begin, in which civil service examinations will soon be held for the selection of several thousand civil and mechanical engineers.

Strategic Uses.

"M. Fornand Bordas, the leading French engineer, writing for the Third International Road Congress, held in London, says: 'The national roads, which connect the capital to the frontiers and to the large towns, or else form a connecting link between the more densely populated centres, are of the greatest interest to the country as a whole, not only from an economic point of view, but also from a strategic one, as assuring communication between points at long distances apart. It is therefore essential that their general trend, general plan, and width, should be settled unfettered by local influence.'

"This is the idea that the A. A. A. National Roads Board is endeavoring to impress upon the lawmakers of this country. It seems as though plans which have been so successful in other countries, and productive of such excellent results, are worthy of a trial here. I believe the newly-created congressional committee on public roads will be of the greatest value in the adoption of legislation worthy of the subject."

"I'll take a peek at that road sign and then we'll get something definite to go by."

HAS "LAND YACHT."

Montreal Man Has Car With Many Comforts of a Home.

The private Pullman as a means of luxurious travel has a rival in an automobile "land yacht" equipped for U. H. Dandurand, of Montreal. A miniature hotel has been mounted on the chassis of a three-ton truck. There are sleeping accommodations for ten persons, a telephone system, electric lights, a kitchenette, and a combination smoking and dining room. The body has five separate compartments. Immediately behind the driver's seat are quarters for the chauffeur. A room with sleeping accommodations for five women comes next. Another compartment, six feet square, which is used as a combination smoking and dining room, has berths for four. Directly behind this compartment is a kitchenette.

TWIN TIRES.

Twin pneumatic tires have not yet made their appearance in any quantities in Canada, but they are becoming very popular in France, and are even being used for comparatively small cars. A well-known French firm which is closely in touch both with the tire and motor business, states that even on small cars they are more economical in the end. There is certainly one great advantage, that the owner of the car so fitted is seldom held up by punctures. If one tire is burst there is no necessity of stopping until one's destination is reached. It would be exceedingly unlikely that both tires on the same wheel would be punctured in the course of a single day.

OVERLOADING HARMS CAR.

Too Much Strain Causes Repair Bill to Be Larger.

It is a most common error of the new motorist to overload his car either with passengers or baggage to such an extent that during the first few months, or year, of its use the car is subjected to unusually severe strains. The result is that the tires do not stand up as recommended; the car shows neither the power nor speed of the company's demonstration car; springs seem to flatten out or break before the year's guarantee has run out; brakes do not work with the necessary efficiency; and the general wear and tear on the entire chassis mechanism makes the repair bill at the end of the year seem unreasonably large.

Of course, it is difficult at times to prevent overloading a car; but under such circumstances the operator should drive more slowly, take the bumps more easily, and bear in mind that the increased weight is going to make the brakes more difficult to operate with the same efficiency as with a normal load. Manufacturers of motor cars have been very generous in building their cars with a liberal capacity for overload; and the motorist should endeavor to co-operate with him in his efforts to prevent the abuse of the car in this manner.

PREIGNITION FAULT.

The loss of power through preignition is due to sharp pieces of carbon being heated by the explosion and not cooling off sufficiently before the succeeding mixture, so there remains sufficient heat with the compression to explode the mixture before the proper time. It means an attempt to force the piston back instead of driving it forward, with the result that the momentum of the fly-wheel must be sufficient to pull it over that point. This, of course, reduces the momentum of the fly-wheel.

Preignition is also due to the overheating of the engine from the failure of the water circulation system or lack of sufficient lubricating oil. With preignition the engine will continue to run after the switch has been opened, and this is usually a sure sign of hot carbon or overheated piston in the cylinder.

With preignition by hot carbon the loose particles of carbon are apt to be blown on the seat of the exhaust valve and caught by the valve when closing, the result being the valve is not allowed to close properly and the mixture escapes through the valve on the compression stroke.

BROKE AUSTRALIAN RECORD.

The capital-to-capital run—or, to be more specific, the 573 miles of road between Melbourne and Sydney—is to the people of Australia what the Marathon race is to the spectators at the Olympic games. It is a heart-breaking, nerve-racking trip from start to finish, and is by far the most dangerous course for an automobile on the island. The race this spring was won by A. V. Turner, of Sydney, who clipped 45 minutes from the time record of 19 hours, 47 minutes that had stood for more than three years.

Nelson Moulton, of Portland, Me., recently made a record motorcycle run from his home to Los Angeles, Cal. He completed the 3,000 miles in 27 days.

PLAN WOULD HELP IMPROVE THE ROADS

Commission for Greater Victoria Could Do Much for Condition of Highways

The Greater Victoria commission, which recently caused such perturbation to the Victoria aldermen, has at least one important object which every motorist will heartily support, and that is to seek out a method by which the various municipalities will co-operate along lines which will result in the development of the district and the extension of roads embracing the various settlements around Victoria. The Shelbourne street extension to Mount Douglas Park is one of these cases where a system of this character has been applied in practice, although the Saanich council as the body through whose area the road must pass is the body to whom conveyances must be made. The city, however, is vitally interested, as the road will be the trunk road to Mount Douglas Park and will replace some more unsatisfactory ways of access to the park.

It is pointed out that one or two other improvements which have been made would also well form the subject of consideration by a commission of this character, one of these being the continuation of the marine driveway beyond its present limits, and the improvement of the roadway from the outer wharf right through to Cadboro Bay, making it unrivalled as a scenic highway for visitors.

While the government keeps the roads in good shape outside the organized areas, there are places which are perilous to autoists and cyclists, particularly around Colwood, a state which representations from the commission would serve to remedy. It must not be lost sight of that the extra work which will be involved in the Sooke waterworks will result in very heavy additions to the traffic of the roads west of the city, which must add to wear on the surface. Representation from a commission would go a long way towards improving the conditions as they exist at the present time.

Among the new roads, the one which is being built near the Goldstream hotel will be very welcome and will open some delightful scenery to the traveler along the picturesque creek of that name.

DRIVES CAR AT 80.

Not many men of 80 years have the inclination to drive motor cars, to say nothing of the alertness and activity, but A. B. Hambleton, of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, is 84 years old and he drives his touring car with the utmost ease. Mr. Hambleton intends to pilot his car on a tour to New York and Cape Cod. He has been driving motor cars for eight years and in that period he has made a number of long journeys. A run to New York and back is a mere incident in his motoring career, while he regards a run to Buffalo with no more concern than the routine of running down-town. He takes care of his own car for the amusement of it.

AN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

The above car, which was the joint property of Messrs. Chilton and Black, was consumed by flames last Sunday on Tillicum road shortly after midnight, as the result of a backfire. The car, saving the right front wheel, mudguard, and radiator, was a total wreck within half an hour of the accident. The debris is considerably added to by the stones and earth which were thrown in by willing helpers in an effort to extinguish fire and prevent explosion.

NINTH INSTLLMENT

APPLIED IDEALISM

In the spring of 1889 I was appointed by President Harrison Civil Service Commissioner. For nearly five years I had not been very active in political life; although I had done some routine work in the organization and had made campaign speeches, and in 1886 had run for Mayor of New York against Abram S. Hewitt, Democrat, and Henry George, Independent, and had been defeated.

I served six years as Civil Service Commissioner—four years under President Harrison and then two years under President Cleveland. I was treated by both Presidents with the utmost consideration. Among my fellow-commissioners there was at one time ex-Governor Hugh Thompson, of South Carolina, and at another time John R. Proctor, of Kentucky. They were Democrats and ex-Confederate soldiers. I became deeply attached to both, and we stood shoulder to shoulder in every contest in which the Commission was forced to take part.

When Amateur Meets Professional.

During my six years' service as Commissioner the field of the merit system was extended at the expense of the spoils system so as to include several times the number of offices that had originally been included. Generally this was done by the introduction of competitive entrance examinations; sometimes, as in the Navy Yards, by a system of registration. This of itself was good work.

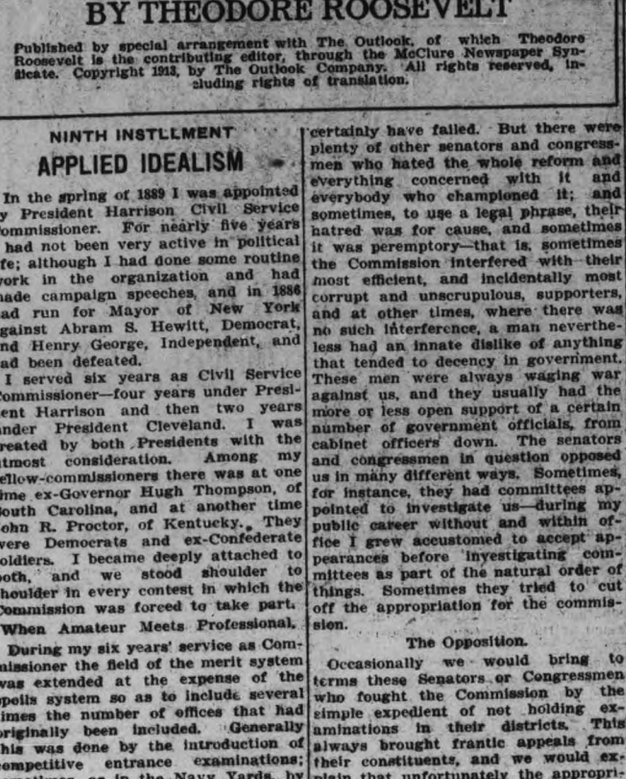
Even better work was making the law efficient and genuine where it applied. As was inevitable in the introduction of such a system, there was at first only partial success in its application. For instance, it applied to the ordinary employees in the big custom-houses and post offices, but not to the heads of these offices. A number of the heads of the offices were slippery politicians of a low moral grade, themselves appointed under the spoils system and anxious, directly or indirectly, to break down the merit system and to pay their own political debts by appointing their henchmen and supporters to the positions under them. Occasionally these men acted with open and naked brutality. Ordinarily they sought by cunning to evade the law. The Civil Service Reformers, on the other hand, were in most cases not much used to practical politics, and were often well-nigh helpless when pitted against veteran professional politicians. In consequence I found at the beginning of my experiences that there were many offices in which the execution of the law was a sham. This was very damaging, because it encouraged the politicians to assault the law everywhere, and, on the other hand, made good people feel that the law was not worth while defending.

The Fight for Enforcement of the Law

The first effort of myself and my colleagues was to secure the genuine enforcement of the law. In this we succeeded after a number of lively fights. But of course in these fights we were obliged to strike a large number of influential politicians, some of them in Congress, some of them the supporters and backers of men who were in Congress. Accordingly we soon found ourselves engaged in a series of contests with prominent senators and congressmen—men like Congressman (afterwards Senator) H. C. Lodge, of Massachusetts; Senator Cushman K. Davis, of Minnesota; Senator Orville H. Platt, of Connecticut; Senator Cockrell, of Missouri; Congressman (afterwards President) McKinley, of Ohio, and Congressman Dargan, of South Carolina—who abhorred the business of the spoilsman, who efficiently and resolutely championed the reform at every turn, and without whom the whole reform would certainly have failed. But there were plenty of other senators and congressmen who hated the whole reform and everything concerned with it and everybody who championed it; and sometimes, to use a legal phrase, their hatred was for cause, and sometimes it was peremptory—that is, sometimes the Commission interfered with their most efficient, and incidentally most corrupt and unscrupulous, supporters, and at other times, where there was no such interference, a man nevertheless had an innate dislike of anything that tended to decency in government. These men were always waging war against us, and they usually had the more or less open support of a certain number of government officials, from cabinet officers down. The senators and congressmen in question opposed us in many different ways. Sometimes, for instance, they had committees appointed to investigate us—during my public career without and within office I grew accustomed to accept appearances before investigating committees as part of the natural order of things. Sometimes they tried to cut off the appropriation for the commission.

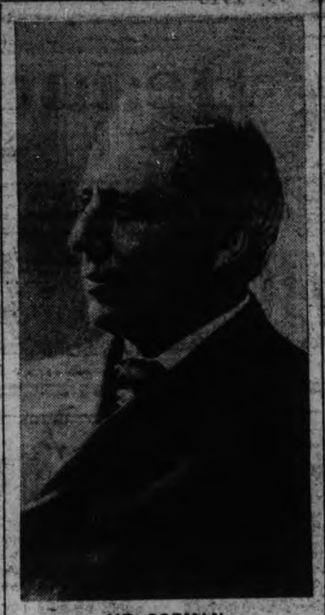
The Opposition.

Occasionally we would bring to terms these Senators or Congressmen who fought the Commission by the simple expedient of not holding examinations in their districts. This always brought frantic appeals from their constituents, and we would explain that unfortunately the appropriations had been cut, so that we could not hold examinations in every district, and that obviously we could not neglect the districts of those Congressmen who believed in the reform and therefore in the examinations. The constituents then turned their attention to the Congressmen, and the result was that in the long run we obtained sufficient money to enable us to do our work. On the whole, the most prominent leaders favored us. Any man who is the head of a big department, if he has any fitness at all, wishes to see that department run well; and a very little practical experience shows him that it cannot be run well if he must make his appointments to please spoilsmongering politicians. As with almost every reform that I have ever undertaken, most of the opposition took the guise of shrewd slander. Our opponents relied chiefly on downright misrepresentation of what it was that we were trying to accomplish, and of our methods, acts and personalities. I had more than one lively encounter with the authors and sponsors of these misrepresentations, which at the time were full of interest to me. But it would be a dreary thing now to go over the record of exploded mendacity or to expose the meanness and malice shown by some men of high official position. A favorite argument was to call the reform Chinese, because the Chinese had constructed an inefficient governmental system based in part on the theory of written competitive examinations. The argument was simple. There had been written examinations in China; it was proposed to establish written examinations in the United States; therefore the proposed system was Chinese. The argument might have been applied still further. For instance, the Chinese had used gunpowder for centuries; gunpowder is used in Springfield rifles; therefore Springfield rifles were Chinese. One argument is quite as logical as the other. It was impossible to answer every falsehood about the system. But it was possible to answer certain falsehoods, especially when uttered by some Senator or Congressmen of note. Usually these false statements took the form of assertions that we had asked preposterous questions of applicants. At times they also included the assertion that we credited people to districts where they did not live; this simply meaning that these persons were not known to the active ward politicians of those districts.



HUGH THOMPSON

Formerly Governor of South Carolina, a Fellow Civil Service Commissioner.



MR. GORMAN

Not hitherto known as a sensitive soul, expressed himself as so shocked at the thought that the veracity of the "bright young man" should be doubted that he could not bring himself to answer my letter.

Congressman Grosvenor's "Jests."

One opponent with whom we had a rather lively tilt was a Republican Congressman from Ohio, Mr. Grosvenor, one of the floor leaders. Mr. Grosvenor made his attack in the House, and enumerated our sins in picturesque rather than accurate fashion. There was a Congressional committee investigating us at the time, and on my next appearance before them I asked that Mr. Grosvenor be requested to meet me before the committee. Mr. Grosvenor did not take up the challenge for several weeks, until it was announced that I was leaving for my ranch in Dakota; whereupon, deeming it safe, he wrote me a letter expressing his ardent wish that I should appear before the committee to meet him. I promptly cancelled my ticket, waited, and met him. He proved to be a person of happily treacherous memory, so that the simple expedient of arranging his statements in pairs was sufficient to reduce him to confusion. For instance, he had been trapped into making the unwary remark, "I do not want to repeal the Civil Service Law, and I never said so." I produced the following extract from one of his speeches: "I will vote not only to strike out this provision, but I will vote to repeal the whole law." To this he merely replied that there was "no inconsistency between those two statements." He asserted that "Rufus P. Putnam, fraudulently credited to Washington County, Ohio, never lived in Washington County, Ohio, or in my congressional district, or in Ohio as far as I know." We produced a letter which, thanks to a beneficient Providence, he had himself written about Mr. Rufus P. Putnam, in which he said: "Mr. Rufus P. Putnam is a legal resident of my district and has relatives living there now." He explained, first, that he had not written the letter; second, that he had forgotten he had written the letter; and, third, that he was grossly deceived when he wrote it. He said: "I have not been informed of one applicant who has found a place in the classified service from my district." We confronted him with the names of eight. He looked them over and said, "Yes, the eight men are living in my district as now constituted," but added that his district had been gerrymandered so that he could no longer tell who did and who didn't live in it. When I started further to question him, he accused me of a lack of humor in not appreciating his statements were made "in a jesting way," and then announced that "a congressman making a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives was perhaps in a little different position from a witness on the witness stand"—a frank admission that he did not consider exactitude of statement necessary when he was speaking as a congressman. Finally he rose with great dignity and said that it was his "constitutional right" not to be questioned elsewhere as to what he said on the floor of the House of Representatives; and accordingly he left the delighted committee to pursue its investigations without further aid from him.

Senator Gorman's "Bright Young Man."

A more important opponent was the then Democratic leader of the Senate, Mr. Gorman. In a speech attacking the commission Mr. Gorman described with moving pathos how a friend of his, "a bright young man from Baltimore," a Sunday school scholar, well recommended by his pastor, wished to be a letter-carrier; and how he went before us to be examined. The first question we asked him, said Mr. Gorman, was the shortest route from Baltimore to China, to which the "bright young man" responded that he didn't want to go to China, and had never studied up that route. Thereupon, said Mr. Gorman, we asked him all about the steamship lines from the United States to Europe, then branched him off into geology, tried him in chemistry and finally turned him down.

Apparently Mr. Gorman did not know that we kept full records of our examinations. I at once wrote to him stating that I had carefully looked through all our examination papers and had not been able to find one question even remotely resembling any of these questions which he alleged had been asked, and that I would be greatly obliged if he would give me the name of the "bright young man" who had deceived him.

However, that "bright young man" remained permanently without a name. I also asked Mr. Gorman, if he did not wish to give us the name of his informant, to give us the date of the examination in which he was supposed to have taken part; and I offered, if he would send down a representative to look through our files, to give him all the aid we could in his effort to discover any such questions. But Mr. Gorman, not hitherto known as a sensitive soul, expressed himself as so shocked at the thought that the veracity of the "bright young man" should be doubted that he could not bring himself to answer my letter. So I made a public statement to the effect that no such questions had ever been asked. Mr. Gorman brooded over this; and during the next session of congress he rose and complained that he had received a very "impudent" letter from me (my letter was a very respectful note calling attention to the fact that if he wished he could by personal examination satisfy himself that his statements had no foundation in fact.) He further stated that he had been "cruelly" called to account by me because he had been endeavoring to right a "great wrong" that the civil service commission had committed; but he never, then or afterwards, furnished any clue to the identity of that child of his fondest fancy, the bright young man without a name.*

*This is a condensation of a speech I at the time made to the St. Louis Civil Service Reform Association. Senator Gorman was then the Senate leader of the party that had just been victorious in the Congressional elections.

999 Kinds of Falsehood.

The incident is of note chiefly as shedding light on the mental make-up of the man who at the time was one of the two or three most influential leaders of the Democratic party. Mr. Gorman had been Mr. Cleveland's party manager in the presidential campaign, and was the Democratic leader in congress. It seemed extraordinary that he should be so reckless as to make statements with no foundation in fact, which he might have known that I would not permit to pass unchallenged. Then, as now, the ordinary newspaper, in New York and elsewhere, was quite as reckless in its misstatements of fact about public men and measures; but for a man in Mr. Gorman's position of responsible leadership such action seemed hardly worth while. However, it is at least to be said for Mr. Gorman that he was not trying by falsehood to take away any man's character. It would be well for writers and speakers to bear in mind the remark of Pudd'nhead Wilson to the effect that while there are nine hundred and ninety-nine kinds of falsehood, the only kind specifically condemned in Scripture, just as murder, theft, and adultery are condemned, is bearing false witness against one's neighbor.

Favoritism and Cruelty.

One of the worst features of the old spoils system was the ruthless cruelty and brutality it so often bred in the treatment of faithful public servants without political influence. Life is hard enough at best, and this is as true of public service as of private service. Under no system will it be possible to do away with all favoritism and brutality and meanness and malice. But at least we can try to minimize the exhibition of these qualities. I once came across a case in Washington which very keenly excited my sympathy. Under an administration prior to the one with which I was connected a lady had been ousted from a government position. She came to me to see if she could be reinstated. (This was not possible, but by active work I did get her put back in a somewhat lower position, and this only by an appeal to the sympathy of a certain official.) She was so pallid and so careworn that she excited my sympathy and I made inquiries about her. She was a poor woman with two children, a widow. She and her two children were in actual want. She could barely keep the two children decently clad, and she could not give them the food growing children need. Three years before she had been employed in a bureau in a department of Washington, doing her work faithfully, at a salary of about $800. It was enough to keep her and her two children in clothing, food and shelter. One day the chief of the bureau called her up and told her he was very sorry that he had to dismiss her. In great distress she asked him why; she thought that she had been doing her work satisfactorily. He answered her that she had been doing well, and that he wished very much that he could keep her, that he would do so if he possibly could, but that he could not; for a certain senator, giving his name, a very influential member of the Senate, had demanded her place for a friend of his who had influence. The woman told the bureau chief that it meant turning her out to starve. She had been thirteen or fourteen years in the public service; she had lost all touch with her friends in her native state; dismissal meant absolute want for her and and her children. On this the chief, who was a kind man, said he would not have her turned out, and sent her back to her work.

By the Senator's Orders.

But three weeks afterwards he called her up again and told her he could not say how sorry he was, but the thing had to be done. The senator had been around in person to know why the change had not been made, and had told the chief that he would be himself removed if the place were not given him. The senator was an extremely influential man. His wants had to be attended to, and the woman had to go. And go she did, and turned out she was, to suffer with her children and to starve outright, or to live in semi-starvation, just as might befall. I do not blame the bureau chief, who hated to do what he did, although he lacked the courage to refuse; I do not even very much blame the senator, who did not know the hardship that he was causing, and who had been calloused by long training in the spoils system; but this system, a system which permits and encourages such deeds, is a system of brutal iniquity.

FINEST QUALITY JUDGES.

According to grocers, eggs are graded as "Finest quality," "New laid," "Best fresh," and "Election eggs." The government are applying a similar standard to judges. In the memorandum to the Appellate Jurisdiction Bill now before the House of Lords (the Daily Mail points out), they state their intention of adding to the highest court of appeal "Two English judges of the finest quality."

THREE LAWSUITS INTEREST LONDON

SENSATIONAL CASES ALL IN HIGH LIFE

Unique Features in Scott Sackville Will Action; Libel Arising From Irish Crown Jewel Theft

(Special Correspondence.)

London, July 5. — Three lawsuits have contributed to filling the newspapers this week, which from the selling standpoint have never had such a good time for months, since apart from affairs in this country the world generally seems in effervescence.

There have been the Sackville will case, which is finishing; the Northampton breach of promise, and a libel brought by Sir Arthur Vicars, formerly Ulster King-at-Arms, against a London weekly society paper of the lower type, for remarks which they had made concerning him, wherein they alleged he was connected with the disappearance some years ago of the Dublin Crown jewels.

With the Northampton case I have already dealt, but the verdict of fifty thousand pounds in favor of the actress, Miss Daisy Markham, has preoccupied society attention even to the partial forgetfulness of the issues in the millionaire will suit. The young Marquis is not very well known, as apart from his position as a subaltern in the "Blues" he has not as yet shown much interest in any public matters, nor is he generally credited with any special ability to distinguish himself in the higher and intellectual walks of life. The sentence in the legal proceedings which has attracted most attention, and which explains, so it is understood, the size of the damages, occurs in Sir Edward Carson's opening address: "I myself have strongly advised this lady that, if possible, the case should not be fought out to the bitter end. I believe in the interests of all parties that is the wisest course." From this it is generally understood that there were elements in the case which placed it on a rather different footing from similar aristocratic breach of promise actions in the past, and which made it quite natural that the damages, and the fact that one of the parties was a peer, it cannot be said that the general public was very much attracted by personalities in the case. Miss Markham is not a great actress, and as already indicated the Marquis is not a distinguished or even a promising peer. The newspapers are printing the evidence in the Sackville will case verbatim. This places it in the front rank of importance, since not half-a-dozen law suits have been so treated within the last twenty-five years, and among them, of course, were the baccarat case and the Osborn pearls suit.

Presumably this is the first instance on record to establish the undue influence of a woman who, apart from physical considerations—and both sides exclude these absolutely—operated only according to the suggestion of the Scott family by mesmeric or fascinating powers. As a rule, a jury always takes the point of view of the blood relations, but this case differs from the normal run in that Sir John Scott himself inherited his money not by relationship but by the goodwill and attachment of Lady Wallace. It cannot therefore be said that if the family money passes elsewhere the relatives lost the birthright of ages. Lady Sackville's evidence, particularly in cross-examination, provided the majority of the thrills which this somewhat disappointing case is furnishing. No doubt when it began some people anticipated that the revelations would be still more piquant than they are, and they are a little disappointed that the whole affair has resolved itself into a decision as to whether a woman made undue use or not of her powers of attraction to bleed the late Sir John Scott. Parts of the evidence read like extracts from a transpontine melodrama, in which the hero goes about with his pockets stuffed with cheques and hands them out at odd moments to beauty in distress. This Sir John certainly seems to have done, and if the Sackvilles never under the will inherited another farthing they evidently in a period of ten years induced Sir John to part with about fifty thousand pounds. No doubt the strain was great in nursing such a venerable millionaire, but there are lots of people who would do it at the same rate of remuneration. A charge of this sort is very difficult to prove, and it would not surprise anyone if it failed, though whether the Sackvilles will profit socially by the disclosures is a matter into which there is no need to go.

Probably the Royal jewels case disappointed expectations. Everyone believes the story of the disappearance of these objects will be one day told, but not in the life of the present generation. We all have our theories, and we all have been told circumstantial scandals which we do not care to repeat. The verdict of £5,000 for Sir Arthur Vicars for absurd and fabricated and incorrect and unjustified libels was not excessive or unexpected. It will, too, scare off in future all theorists as to how these jewels disappeared.

Secret of Mysterious Power Revealed at Last

How Prominent People Have Gained Wealth and Fame.

Simple Method that enables anyone to control thoughts and acts of others, cure diseases and habits without drugs, win the love and friendship of others and read the secret thoughts and desires of people though thousands of miles away.

"TO UPLIFT AND BENEFIT MANKIND," says THE REV. JAMES STANLEY WENTZ

WONDERFUL BOOK DESCRIBING THIS STRANGE FORCE AND A CHARACTER DELINEATION POST FREE TO ALL WHO WRITE AT ONCE

The National Institute of Sciences of London, England, has appropriated $25,000 toward a fund for the free distribution of Prof. Knowles' new book, "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of Eastern Yogis, and explains a wonderfully simple system for the development of Personal Magnetism, Hypnotic and Telepathic Powers, and the curing of diseases and habits without drugs. The subject of practical character reading is also extensively dealt with, and the author describes a simple method of accurately reading the secret thoughts and desires of others though thousands of miles away. The almost endless stream of letters requesting copies of the book and character delineations indicate clearly the universal interest in Psychological and Occult Sciences.

Prof. Elmer E. Knowles, author of the new book "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces."

That Prof. Knowles' system is exciting the interest of the brightest intellect of the present day is clearly shown by the scores of recommendations, among which the following, from representative British publications, the clergy and the medical profession are striking examples:

The Christian Age—"Professor Knowles' System has cured disease, corrected bad habits, strengthened memory and proved highly beneficial in the cultivation of personality and Personal Influence."

The London Weekly Times—"Professor Elmer E. Knowles' Complete System of Personal Influence and Healing provides the embryo enthusiast with just such knowledge as could be adapted to his own personal circumstances and inclinations."

The London Mail—"Professor Knowles' System embraces a great deal of erudition in a form which can be readily grasped by all who have the ability to read and understand simple prose. No better help towards success in life could be desired."

Modern Society—"No modern investigator along psychological lines has received so large an amount of praise as that accorded to Professor Elmer E. Knowles for his marvellous System of Personal Influence and Healing. Here at last is a man who is at once a great scholar, a born teacher and a practical helper—for the instruction papers reveal a nature which is sympathetic and of good fellowship for an ambitious, yet largely misguided population."

The Rev. James Stanley Wentz says: "No one can give the system a careful perusal without becoming satisfied that in giving this knowledge to the world Prof. Knowles is actuated by the earnest desire to uplift and benefit mankind. I heartily recommend this course to all who desire to develop and cultivate their inner forces."

A leading London physician, Dr. R. N. Pickering, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., L.S.A., in a letter to Prof. Knowles, says: I consider your system the most complete and accurate literature upon the subject. You have treated the science with much ability."

A prominent American physician, A. W. Fisher, M.D., Ph.D., M.E., Principal of the Douglas Institute, writes: "Your system is very useful to me in my practice."

"Rich and poor alike benefit by the teachings of this new system," says Prof. Knowles, "and the person who wishes to achieve greater success has but to apply the simple rules laid down." That many wealthy and prominent people owe their success to the power of Personal Influence there is not the slightest doubt, but the great mass of people have remained in utter ignorance of these phenemena. The National Institute of Sciences has therefore undertaken the somewhat arduous task of distributing broadcast, without regard for class or creed, the information heretofore possessed by the few. In addition to supplying the books free, each person who writes at once will also receive a character delineation of from 400 to 500 words as prepared by Professor Knowles.

If you wish a copy of Prof. Knowles' book and a Character Delineation, simply copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

"I want power of mind,
Force and strength in my look.
Please read my character
And send me your book."

Also send your full name and address (state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss), write plainly, and address your letter to:

National Institute of Sciences, Dept. 855A, No. 258 Westminster Bridge Road, London, S. E., England. If you wish you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay postage, etc.

Postage on letters to England, 2 cents.

Is it known to you that the system requires a certain amount of Sulphur to be in its normal state? Nature has, in part, supplied this in many ways, but it is not always within the reach of all. "LIQUID SULPHUR" supplies this want in the most natural way. This is one reason why "LIQUID SULPHU is so beneficial to the entire system.

After taking "LIQUID SULPHUR" for a while, many people have been surprised to find that it has not only cured the disease for which they started to take it, but other ailments as well. Try it. You will be more than pleased with the results.

As a Blood Medicine and Spring Remedy "LIQUID SULPHUR" has NO EQUAL. It thoroughly purifies the entire system, cleanses and disinfects the stomach, bowels and blood. "LIQUID SULPHUR" is not a physic. You cannot cure by taking physic into the stomach. It only relieves temporarily. "LIQUID SULPHUR" cures because it purifies the entire system, while only a slight laxative it will cure chronic constipation if used as per directions for stomach trouble.

Gentlemen—A short time ago I procured a bottle of your "LIQUID SULPHUR" as a cure for Rheumatism, which I have suffered with for some time, and I am pleased to inform you that your remedy has done, for me, all that you claim for it, and now I am free from pains and no longer suffer from this disease.

BRUCE WALKER

(By W. J. Healy.)

"He puts me in mind of Teddy Roosevelt," said a Saskatchewan grain grower, an ex-Iowan, on the train between Weyburn and Moose Jaw. He was speaking of Bruce Walker, the immigrant commissioner, who has his headquarters in Winnipeg and whose jurisdiction extends from Lake Superior to the Pacific.

When you see Mr. Walker at work in his office, and talk with him, you realize what the ex-Iowan meant, while at the same time you realize that Mr. Walker would be the last man in the world to give a moment's thought to imitating anybody in manner, or appearance. He has too vigorous a personality of his own for that. He certainly is not unlike the strenuous Teddy; the physical resemblances between the two men are, in fact, at times quite striking—resemblances in their profiles, in their solid build, in the energy of their movements and in their earnest, emphatic way of speaking, with a drawing back of the lips, disclosing the teeth, and with a driving home of some positive statement with clenched fist on open palm.

It is a busy place, a great clearing house for humanity, that big Dominion Immigration building in Winnipeg, in which, in a corner of the ground floor, Mr. Walker has his office, adjoining the C. P. R. station. It is a spacious, large-windowed, sunny office, and like the whole building and the platforms and approaches, it is a place teeming with human interest. The trains roll in, and the baggage-laden immigrants swarm out of them and into that big building, through which every day since the beginning of March of this year have passed, on an average, close upon a thousand newcomers to Western Canada.

The duties of the immigration commissioner are multifarious and incessant. He is in Winnipeg most of the time; but he has to go, on occasion, to this point or that in the wide territory under his jurisdiction, to get into personal contact with some matter requiring special attention. There are, all told, twenty ports of entry between the Great Lakes and the Pacific, and Mr. Walker's office is in constant touch with every one. There are half a hundred immigrant halls throughout the length and breadth of Western Canada, each with its staff of land guides, interpreters and other officials, and each of these halls is likewise in constant touch with the head centre at Winnipeg. Weekly reports in tabulated form, showing full particulars in regard to newcomers to the country, the homestead entries, the departures from the countries (for these are kept track of, too) the deportations, and everything else that has to do with the movement of population are laid on the commissioner's desk with unfailing regularity. The whole system goes like clockwork. It does a great many things which those who have not come into contact with its workings do not know about. Over all these workings Mr. Bruce Walker exercises close and unresting supervision.

To get back to the personality of the immigration commissioner, it is to be said that while each of the two men, Theodore Roosevelt and Bruce Walker, could easily, with a little "fixing up," personate the other, it would be necessary for Mr. Roosevelt to acquire the strong trace of Mr. Walker's native Ayrshire burr which still clings to his utterance. John Bruce Walker, to give him his name in full, came to Canada in 1881, being then in his twenty-first year, and was engaged for twenty years in newspaper work before he entered the immigration service of the Dominion government. He knows all the branches of that service from actual experience, having worked in them all. For several years he was in charge of the office in London which is the headquarters for the Dominion government's immigration work in Great Britain. When he was appointed to his present post in 1908 he brought to the discharge of the duties of this post of high importance and responsibility an equipment and experience fitting him excellently for it. He has gone on, year after year, doing his work as immigration commissioner in a manner which entitles him to be justly counted among our Canadian nation-builders. He is devoted to his work. He gives it the best that is in him. Like most earnest, hard workers, he is modest. He "doesn't advertise." But there are not many public servants who are giving the country more valuable public service.

"The figures thus far this year," said Mr. Walker, in the course of a brief talk recently with the writer of this article, "show that 54 per cent of the total immigration to Canada is for the West, but official statistics do not give anything like the full measure of the volume of immigration streaming into the West. The newcomers are tabulated in the immigration returns according to their declared destinations in Canada, and many thousands of those who state their destinations as in the East simply stop off for a while in the East and then come out West. They have the privilege of coming on within a month after their arrival in the East, at no greater cost to them for railway fare than the immigrants who come straight to the West immediately upon landing from the ship that brings them across the Atlantic. Then the movement of Eastern Canadians to the West is going on at the rate of 70,000 a year."

"What do you expect the total immigration to be for the present year?"

"I feel confident that when the figures are made up at the close of our present immigration year, which will be March 31st next," replied Mr. Walker, "the total will be in the neighborhood of 450,000, of which number those from the British Isles will total about 200,000, and those from the United States 125,000, the others being from the other countries which send desirable accessions to our population."

The Dominion immigration service restricts its invitations to desirable people in Great Britain and the United States and to the farming people of Northern France, Belgium, Scandinavia, Iceland, Denmark and North Germany. Mr. Walker traced with his finger across the big map of Europe in his offices an imaginary line that began somewhere about Brest, in France, and ran westward, leaving Finland to the north. "We deliberately discourage any attempts to bring in people from Southern Europe," he said. "They are unsuited to our climatic conditions and are out of accord with our racial traditions."

The telephone rang, and Mr. Walker jumped to his feet to reply. Instead of using the telephone without moving from his chair at his desk, he stands up to use it. The instrument is one of those adjustable swinging arms; but instead of reaching out and bringing it to his ear, Mr. Walker leaves the instrument in a fixed position, so that when he stands up he is face to face with it. That he should prefer to use his telephone in that way is characteristic. He puts quickness and energy and something of his forceful personality into everything he does.

That particular telephone conversation, by the way, may be mentioned as furnishing an illustration of one branch of the many-branching work of the office of the Commissioner of Immigration. After putting the receiver back in its forks, and resuming his chair at his desk, Mr. Walker said that the man who had just called him up was the manager of a large bakery business in Winnipeg, to whom he had written the day before about a recent arrival from the other side of the Atlantic, a baker by trade, now an employe in the bakery establishment in question. Information had come to the Commissioner's office that the man had deserted his wife and family, and the telephone conversation was in connection with an arrangement by which the man was resuming his obligations as husband and father.

"We look after the health and welfare of the newcomers for twelve months after their arrival," said the Commissioner, "and the provincial governments then assume the responsibility for two years more. We try to safeguard them against sickness and unemployment. In the case of illness when they are newly-arrived strangers in a strange land, we supply them with doctors and medicine. To some extent, for a certain time after their arrival, we may almost be said to exercise paternal care over those immigrants with whom circumstances take a turn necessitating such care on our part."

In the immigration building in Winnipeg, and in all the other immigration halls throughout the West, beds and bedding are provided for those who must wait overnight. There are sanitary detention apartments for those who are held up as being possibly people who should not be allowed to enter the country. The prevention of the entry of undesirables and the deportation of such people as have managed to pass in form an important branch of the work of the Dominion immigration service. This claims special attention from the Commissioner, on account of the large authority vested in him, and a full account of this work would furnish some curious reading, as may well be imagined.

At all the ports of entry under the Commissioner's jurisdiction—that is to say, Port Royal, Fort William, Rainy River, Sprague, Winnipeg, Morden, Bannerman, Gretna, St. Francis, Portal, Coutts, Rykert's, Chilliwack, Kingsgate, Huntingdon, Waneta, Douglas, Gateway, Patterson and Grand Forks, strung out along the boundary line which divides Western Canada from the Western States—constant vigilance has to be exercised. There are mounted men in the service at not a few of these points. If at any one point there were any relaxation of vigilance, the undesirables seeking to enter Western Canada would soon get to know of it and would make for that point. Experience has made the Immigration Commissioner and those of his assistants concerned in this work experts in dealing with it.

In a word, the Immigration Commissioner is the efficient and vigilant head of Western Canada of the Dominion government's service whose work it is to bring in desirable homeseekers, thrifty, industrious, law-abiding people to become good Canadian citizens and aid in the development of the half of Canada which is mainly made up of the Prairie Empire of the Gold that Grows, and to keep out the undesirables. He has his heart in the work, and he inspires in all the force working under him his own spirit of devotion to duty. He is a fine type of public servant, and is entitled to have it said of him that, like Othello, he "has done good service for the state"—and is doing it every day.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

On July 19, 1629, David Kirke appeared before Quebec with two of his considerable fleet of armed vessels. Champlain and his small garrison were in such straits from famine that they were almost ready to welcome the invaders as friends and deliverers; and three days later the English flag floated over Champlain's little town. The conqueror treated the anquished with courtesy and kindness, being doubtless the better able to sympathize with them from the fact that he was himself half a Frenchman, having been born at Dieppe, and having, through his mother, Huguenot blood in his veins. But his father was a Derbyshire man, one of the "Adventurers to Canada," which had fitted out Kirke's fleet of privateers, armed with letters of marque authorizing them to capture French and Spanish ships; and vigorously the bold free-booter had carried out his instructions, having in the previous year, with three ships commanded by himself and his brothers, captured all but one of the eighteen merchantmen bringing succor to Quebec. Soon afterwards, however, Kirke's conquest was given back to France by treaty. This bruve "old sea-dog" later became governor of Newfoundland, in which capacity, it is reported, he was not remarkable for justice.

* * *

Giovanni da Verrazzano, an Italian navigator who commanded the first French expedition to America sent out under royal auspices, arrived at Dieppe on this date in the year 1524, after a successful voyage in which he traversed the coast of North America from North Carolina to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Upon his return from the country which he called "New France," Verrazzano wrote a letter to his royal patron, Francis I., in which he gave an interesting description of the Canadians of the early sixteenth century. He wrote:

"The people were entirely different from the others we had seen, whom we had found kind and gentle, but these were so rude and barbarious that we were unable by any signs we could make to hold communication with them. They clothe themselves in the skins of bears, lynxes, seals and other animals. Their food, as far as we could judge by several visits to their dwellings, is obtained by hunting and fishing, and certain fruits, which are a sort of root of spontaneous growth. They have no pulse, and we saw no signs of cultivation; the land appears sterile and unfit for growing of fruit or grain of any kind. If we wished at any time to traffic with them, they came to the sea shore and stood upon the rocks, from which they lowered down by a cord to our boats beneath whatever they had to barter, continually crying out to us not to come nearer, and instantly demanding from us that which was to be given in exchange; they took from us only knives, fish hooks and sharpened tools. No regard was paid to our courtesies; when we had nothing left to exchange with them, the men at our departure made the most brutal signs of disdain and contempt possible."

SCRAP BOOK.

Saxe-Coburg-Gotha Celebrates the Birthday of Its Reigning Duke

Saxe-Coburg-Gotha's quarter of a million people will celebrate to-day the twenty-ninth birthday of their ruler, Duke Charles Edward, who is, with the exception of King Alfonso of Spain and Grand Duchess Marie of Luxemburg, the youngest of Europe's reigning princes. The youthful monarch of the little German state rules, by the grace of God and Emperor William, in the stead of the Duke of Connaught, now governor-general of Canada, who refused the throne. He is the only son of the late Duke of Albany, fourth son of Queen Victoria. His succession was in this wise:

Duke Ernst II., who was a brother of Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's consort, died in 1893, after a reign of nearly a half a century, and was succeeded by his nephew, Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, the second son of Queen Victoria. He died in 1900. His only son, Prince Alfred, had died the previous year, and the Duke of Connaught thus became heir presumptive. The prospect did not please him, and a few months later both the Duke and his son, Prince Arthur, renounced their claims to the succession in favor of the young Duke of Albany. He has ruled since 1900.

Duke Charles Edward's mother was the Princess Helen, daughter of Prince George of Waldeck, another two-by-four German state. The Duke's wife is Princess Victoria Adelaide, eldest daughter of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glucksburg. They have three children, two sons and a daughter.

In size Sachsen-Koburg-Gotha, to give it its German name, stands fourteenth among the twenty-six states comprising the German empire, with an area of 756 square miles. Coburg and Gotha were formerly separate duchies, and are situated in Thuringia about fourteen miles from each other. The territories of the young Duke also include eight tiny scattered exclaves strewed promiscuously about the map. The people of Coburg belong to the Franconian and those of Gotha to the Thuringian branch of the Teutonic family. The miniature nation has two capitals, one in each duchy.

Sisters of Charity.

Sisters of Charity throughout the world will to-day observe the festival of the founder of their order, St. Vincent de Paul, who is also honored as the patron saint of the Charitable Society of St. Vincent de Paul and other Catholic benevolent organizations. The good St. Vincent was born in 1576 and died in 1660. In his youth he was of lowly station and guarded his father's pigs. Soon after his ordination to the priesthood he was captured by pirates and sold into slavery on the Barbary coast. He converted his master to Christianity and together they fled to France, where Vincent began that career that has made his name immortal. The Sisters of Charity, founded by him in 1634, soon spread from France to other European countries, and now their beneficent and self-sacrificing spirit has girdled the globe. Wherever there is poverty and sickness, wherever there is suffering and sin, sorrow and shame, illness and death, wherever humanity cries aloud for succor, there may be found the successors of those angels of mercy who were first dispatched on their holy mission by St. Vincent de Paul. With "no home but the houses of the sick, no cloister but the streets of the town and the rooms of the hospital, no rule but the vow of obedience, and no veil but the holiest and most perfect modesty," the Sisters of Charity still fulfill the vow imposed on them by the saint whose festival is celebrated each year on the 19th of July.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Prince George, Duke of Sparta, heir-apparent to the throne of Greece, will celebrate his twenty-third birthday to-day. The youthful Prince Royal was with his father at the front during the last war with Turkey, and has played a prominent part in more recent military activities, with the result that he is tremendously popular with the people.

Like his father, King Constantine, Prince George was born in Greece and brought up in the national creed of the country, the Greek Orthodox church. The future King of the Hellenes (of the Greeks, not of Greece), is tall and soldierly, and more German than Danish in appearance. His mother was the Princess Sophia of Prussia, sister of Emperor William. On her marriage she embraced the Greek Orthodox faith, which greatly angered the Kaiser, who objected strongly to the change of religion.

Prince George is the oldest of four children, and has two brothers and one sister. His grandfather, the late King George I., was a brother of the late King Frederick VIII. of Denmark, Dowager Queen Alexandra of Great Britain and the Dowager Empress of Russia. He was Prince William Christian Alphonse George when he was elected King of the Hellenes just half a century ago. His queen, the grandmother of the Crown Prince, was the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, grand uncle to the Czar. The young Prince is thus related to the royal families of Denmark, England, Germany, Russia and Norway.

* * *

Jamaica's new governor, Col. Sir William Henry Manning, will pass the half-century mark to-day, having been born July 19, 1863. He was educated at Cambridge and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst, and entered the British army at twenty-three. He first saw active service in the second Burmese war, in which he was wounded. Later he accompanied expeditions to the wild interior of India and to the jungles of Central Africa. He raised and commanded the Central Africa regiment. From 1910 until his appointment to the Jamaica post he was governor and commander-in-chief of the Nyasaland protectorate. Sir William has won many medals for gallantry in action, and has an excellent record as an administrator. As governor of the "banana island" he succeeds Sir Sydney Olivier, an eccentric but extraordinarily capable and efficient executive. Sir Sydney incensed some of the Jamaicans by his refusal to take part in public ceremonials and religious exercises, and his heretical views in theology, sociology and economics excited much adverse comment.

Prof. Edward Charles Pickering, director of Harvard Observatory since 1876 and one of the world's foremost astronomers, was born in Boston sixty-seven years ago to-day. He recently visited England and in an address last month before the Royal Astronomical Society described the work at Harvard, and especially the work of Miss Annie Cannon, of the Harvard staff, who is engaged in making a classification of the stars according to their spectra. Prof. Pickering established the first physical laboratory in America, and devised the meridian photometer and other advances in the science of astronomy. As to the perennial question, "Is Mars inhabited?" Prof. Pickering candidly admits that he knows less than the average man, for he hasn't even a theory to offer on the subject.

Placed our bud among His flowers,
Taken back the child He lent us,
To a better home than ours.

Adieu, sweet flower, nipp'd in the bud,
No sin or sorrow knew,
Came but to win thy parents' love,
And then to heaven withdrew.

HEAT WAVE RELIEVED OVER CENTRAL WEST

Temperature Rises to 106 at Joplin—Five Deaths Reported at Louisville.

Chicago, July 19.—The heat wave over the central west was relieved in many sections yesterday and last night. Although some cities sweltered under high temperatures, others were refreshed by moderate temperatures. Joplin, Mo., with 106, was the hottest city, while Louisville, Ky., and Arkansas City, Kas., suffered with the mercury at 104, and St. Louis and Evansville, Ind., registered 102.

St. Louis had a little relief last evening, but faces a hot night with the thermometer at 88. Suffering was intense at Louisville, which reported extreme humidity, with five deaths and a number of prostrations.

In Kansas and Missouri showers brought some relief. This city was comfortable with a temperature of 76.

JAPAN IMMIGRATION IN SOUTH AMERICA

Baron Shibusawa Starts Colonization Scheme on Leased Land in Brazil.

Tokio, July 19.—Although the emigration of Japanese to the United States has been practically stopped by what is known as the "gentlemen's agreement," the exodus of emigrants to South America is increasing. One of the principal causes of this is the establishment of the Brazilian Colonization Company by Baron Shibusawa and other prominent Japanese for the leasing of lands in Brazil. An agreement with the Brazilian government provides for the settlement of 2,000 Japanese families in Brazil for the next four years, and a start has been made in sending these people across the Pacific. It is likely that rice cultivation will be the chief occupation.

The majority of the Japanese emigrants are in Hawaii and the United States, with South America and Canada next. There are 600 Japanese working in the rubber plantations in Malay peninsula. Already there are 8,000 Japanese laborers in Brazil engaged in the cultivation of coffee, abut 1,000 in Peru in the cultivation of potatoes, 1,000 in Mexico in mining and 2,000 in Australia. Official figures place the number of Japanese in the Philippine Islands at 3,000, chiefly engaged in the production of flax and potatoes, while there are 500 employed in phosphorous mining in the Island of Guam, which belongs to the United States.

SUSHANNA IS RICHEST STRIKE SINCE KLONDIKE

Two Thousand Five Hundred Dollars Taken in Day by Crude Methods.

Cordova, Alaska, July 19.—"The richest strike since the Klondike" is the sentiment of those who have visited the new placer diggings on the Sushanna river. Pans running from 75 cents to $5, and two men taking out $2,500 per day by crude methods, are reported. Hundreds are rushing to the scene from all parts of the territory.

No doubt any longer exists as to the authenticity of the strike. James Morris and Daniel Stacey returned to McCarthy last night from the Sushanna with news of the camp, and letters for McCarthy people from parties who are now on the ground.

They report the strike a genuine one, and even better than first reported. Pay dirt has been found on Bonanza, Eldorado and other tributaries of the Sushanna, pans ranging from 25 cents up being common. The diggings are shallow bedrock, lying but four to five feet from the surface. The hills are rolling and well worn, and the country offers an extensive area of promising ground.

PADDED PAYROLLS ON CANADIAN PACIFIC WORK

Moosejaw, Sask., July 19.—Wholesale padding of payrolls for C. P. R. extra gangs around Mortlatch has been discovered. William McGregor is the latest to be arrested and will come up for preliminary trial Tuesday together with E. B. House and William Barlow. Other arrests are expected at any moment. False names were used, it is alleged, and then the checks were cashed. William Barlow, the time-keeper, is said to have made a complete confession, implicating a number of others.

PRESIDENT'S MATCH WON BY B. C. HORSE TEAMS

Vancouver, July 19.—The president's match for teams of six men each, regiment or rifle association, was the only event at the Richmond ranges this morning, and the competition was between the two rivals of last year, the men from the Okanagan valley and the Sixth, of Vancouver. Last year these teams tied in the aggregate, but the Sixth won by having the best score at the long ranges. To-day the team of the B. C. Horse beat the Sixth by three points. The scores were: B. C. Horse, 533; Sixth, 530. Both teams were leading the others by several points.

LORD DERBY'S ACCIDENT LEADS TO LITIGATION

Litigation arose over the disaster to the freight steamer Lord Derby, which was at Esquimalt drydock for seven weeks having repairs executed following her accident on Strawberry island, Rosario Strait.

The Lord Derby was then under time charter, one of the terms of which was that in case she was disabled for a period of four weeks the charterers would have the privilege of cancelling the charter after they had removed and transhipped any cargo which might be in the steamer at the time. The vessel had on board something over 1,000 tons of cargo, which was discharged and not forwarded. In order to prevent the time charterers from removing this cargo the owners sought an injunction against their taking steps to prevent the loading of the steamer.

This injunction was granted, but on appeal by the time charterers the Court of Appeal dismissed the injunction and sustained the appeal.

The Lord Derby is now under charter to carry wheat from Portland to Cork, Ireland, at 33s. 9d.

HERE FROM SASKATOON.

S. M. Greene, Grand Trunk Pacific passenger agent at Saskatoon, was a visitor at the office of the local agent, C. F. Earle, this morning. Although the spring was late and prospects were bad early in the season said Mr. Greene, the splendid rains which have taken place in the last three weeks have brought on the crops in the prairies splendidly. There has been enough rain to do now, according to Mr. Greene, who owns a 299-acre farm near Saskatoon. He is accompanied by his wife on his visit to Victoria and both were much impressed with the charms of this city as a residential place.

Mrs. Martha Patton, Skinner street, Victoria West, announces the marriage of her daughter Melissa, to J. Edward Sears, a barrister of Vancouver, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sears, of this city. The ceremony will take place at St. John's church at 7.30 p.m. on August 15.

VEGETABLES FOR THE HAIR.

Now that fruit has reached the hair, in the shape of little oranges for the bride's coiffure, will it come to vegetables again, as it did among the absurdities of Marie Antoinette's time? queries the Chronicle. "Ask my niece, Mme. de Matignon," we read in the memoirs of the Marquise de Cregny, "if it is not true that in 1785 she had her hair dressed a la jardiniere, with a red check duster, into which M. Leonard (the Queen's hair dresser) had artistically inserted a small artichoke, a broccoli, a fine carrot, and some radishes. When Dondor Picot (the Comtesse de Lameth-Picot), a rich Creole, saw it she was so delighted that she exclaimed, 'I will never wear anything but vegetables. It is so simple, and more natural than flowers.'"

A simple and excellent way to remove dirty marks from a mackintosh is to cut a raw potato in slices and rub it well on the marks. It will also remove mudstains from dress skirts, children's coats, and gentlemen's trousers.

SICK HEADACHE

A Symptom of Troubles Which are Removed by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

These terrible headaches permanently banished by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Sick headaches are not merely afflictions to be borne as patiently as possible—they are danger signals. They never come unless the digestive system is out of order, and their regular recurrence is proof positive of serious trouble and a warning that should be heeded promptly.

Sick headaches are caused by Indigestion, Biliousness or Constipation, and no amount of "headache powders" will do more than temporarily relieve them. The only way to get rid of them entirely is to cure the Constipation or Indigestion that is causing them, and nothing will do this quicker or more effectively than Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are purely vegetable in character, and are free from any harmful drug. For over fifty years they have been in constant use in Canada, and have proved most effective in regulating the bowels, aiding digestion, banishing sick headaches and restoring vigorous health.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have stood the test for over fifty years. 25c. at all dealers. W. H. Comstock Co., Ltd., Brockville, Ont. 7

TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION

Labor Men Will Hold Mass Meeting July 27 to Consider Question of Unemployment.

A mass meeting of Victoria unionists is to be held at the North Ward park a week from to-morrow to demonstrate upon the unemployment question. Among the speakers will be Parker Williams, M. P. P., President Christian Sivertz, Secretary V. R. Midgley, of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, Frank Perrott, president of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, J. Day, J. L. Martin and P. Harrow.

Mr. Sivertz has been in consultation with Alderman Dilworth, chairman of the parks committee. As the meeting is to be held in the afternoon at an hour coincident with the band concert at Beacon Hill park, the North Ward park was the only pleasure ground available.

Permission to use the park was granted on the understanding that there will be no offensive reference to the flag, to public men or to sacred institutions. The reason for this restriction is due to the fact that, from the other side, some speakers are expected, whose words might jar the susceptibilities of the local public, judging from a recent incident in Seattle. The alderman does not wish to take the responsibility of leading to any trouble. He intends to see that a suitable number of police are about in case of any difficulty arising, but hopes that the sober judgment of men like Mr. Williams and the leaders of the Federation will prevent any untoward incident.

The meeting will commence at 2.30.

HIGHEST THIS YEAR.

Temperature Went to 82 in Shade, but Breezes Lowered Heat.

With the mercury trying to lift the lid off the thermometer to-day, Victoria found itself thronging ice cream parlors and seeking the bathing beaches in search of cool. The parks, too, were well patronized this afternoon, and practically every atom of tree-shade therein was occupied. The waters at the Gorge were thronged with canoes and all manner of up-river craft, which more often sought the shady side of the stream than the centre.

The heat reached its height for the day rather early this morning, the mercury rising to 82 in the shade about 10.30. After that time cooler breezes from the sea became more insistent, and the temperature lowered slightly for the rest of the day. Eighty-two in the shade is the highest recorded in Victoria since last July. In the sun, of course, the heat was much greater, rising to well over a hundred when the thermometer was placed in the warm sunshine.

Vendors of soft drinks and ices did a roaring trade all day, and the drivers of tally-hos and sightseeing wagons did not call for fares in vain. The railways profited hugely by the ideal conditions, the local and interurban cars to outside points being thronged every trip. The Esquimalt and Nanaimo trains to points up the line were also well filled with happy picnickers and sportsmen anxious to get the best out of the good weather while it lasted.

FIREMEN WILL COMPETE.

Three Companies of Victoria Department Will Take Part in Carnival Competitions.

Fire Chief Davis is expecting to have three companies of firemen in the competitions during carnival week, which will attract departments from all parts of the western provinces.

The chief expects to leave for the East about August 20, going first to Tacoma to extend the invitation to the Pacific Coast fire chiefs to meet in Victoria next year.

He intends to give special attention to the question of fire protection during carnival week, to see that due precaution is taken with the temporary structures utilized, and that no waste paper and inflammable material is allowed to collect and become a danger to the public.

Police Court Novelty.—The novel sight of a woman in the police court on a charge of being drunk on the street was seen this morning. The usual fine was imposed. The moral to be drawn from the excuse given would seem to be that Hudson's Bay rum taken for a cold should be taken only in one's own home, and that a walk to a friend's house should not be undertaken soon after.

TO CONSIDER COMMISSION

Subject of Body for Greater Victoria Will Be Before Council Again Monday.

Mayor Morley expects that the city council will be able by Monday's meeting to have made up its mind as to the Greater Victoria Commission. At the last meeting the subject was talked out under the 11 o'clock rule and therefore must have a place on the list at Monday's session.

The majority of those who waited to hear the debate at the last session were in favor of referring the subject to a committee of aldermen and reeves of the district municipalities. The mayor resisted this proposal, declaring that the suggestion which Alderman Gleason offered ought to be adopted. This was to the effect that the council should go on record in favor of the proposal. The mayor held that the time would arise for putting it before the other municipalities after a concrete scheme had been hammered out by the city of Victoria.

The mayor still takes the attitude that this is the right course to adopt and says he hopes that the council will take a little broader view of the question than was shown in the debate on the previous occasion.

Tenders will be in for the telephone service from Humpback to Sooke Lake, for catering at the parks, and for the position of inspector of weights and measures.

There does not promise to be any subject of controversy arise on Monday, most of the business offering being of a routine character.

On Monday morning there will be another meeting of the committee to deal with the application to alter the old First Presbyterian church for market purposes.

ELECTED OFFICERS

Jubilee Hospital Directors Make J. W. Bolden President For the Year.

At the meeting of the Jubilee Hospital Board of Directors last evening at the Royal Jubilee hospital, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. W. Bolden; vice-president, Simon Leiser; hon. treasurer, R. S. Day (re-elected); resident secretary, G. T. Carver (re-elected). The entire staff, with the exception of the Matron, Miss Macdonald, whose resignation was accepted some time ago, was re-appointed.

J. W. Bolden occupied the chair, and a considerable amount of routine business was disposed of. Messrs. Bolden, Callow and Blakemore were among those present, with their commission from the government as Provincial government representatives. The report of the building committee was adopted, including the recommendation that Mr. Aitcheson, architect of the new Central Hospital at Winnipeg, be appointed the assessor on the competition plans for the new hospital.

Applications for the position of lady superintendent were opened by the secretary, and were referred to a special committee consisting of J. W. Bolden, Mrs. Rhodes, W. Blakemore, and R. S. Day.

The finance committee reported that they had waited on the city council and had placed before it the position of the hospital fund and the plans for the new building, and said that they had met with a favorable reception. The other reports read included those of the secretary and matron.

WILL SUGGEST CONFERENCE.

Saanich Paving Contract Will Come Up on Tuesday at Meeting of Council.

When the advice of the government on the Saanich paving contract which will be tendered to the municipal council on Tuesday at the regular session, recommending that a concrete base should be laid in variation of the present specifications, the minority will suggest that a conference with the government engineers should be held to consider the best system to be used.

Two of the councillors will probably be away, as Councillor Dunn is unwell and Councillor Williams is inspecting surveys in the Cariboo and Lillooet districts for the government.

Interesting Function This Afternoon at Cadboro Bay—Hon. D. M. Eberts Performs Ceremony.

The formal opening of the new club house of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club took place this afternoon, and in the absence of Sir Richard McBride, who was to have made the formal speech of opening, this pleasant task fell to the lot of Hon. D. M. Eberts, speaker of the House. The new building, which stands in an ideal position on the edge of Cadboro Bay, was thronged with enthusiastic yachters and their friends.

STRIKE IN ENGLAND BY FARM LABORERS

Trouble in Lancashire May Spread to Other Parts of the Country

(Special Correspondence.)

London, July 5.—On the outcome of the strike among the agricultural laborers in Lancashire depends the extension on a large scale of a similar movement in other parts of the country, more especially in those of a semi-urban nature or in the vicinity of towns where there is an organized artizan population.

No body of workers is so poorly organized as the agricultural laborers. They have two small specialized trade unions, both in the east counties, of which the more important, which now calls itself the Laborers' Union so as to give itself a national character, is conducting the operations in Lancashire. Its membership is, however, small, and its funds proportionate, and a considerable amount of the money which is now forthcoming as strike pay is understood to be contributed from the outside. The most powerful union embracing agricultural laborers is the Workers' Union, whose headquarters are in Agincourt road, Hampstead. This is a strong and well organized union, embracing many classes of workers, and with several representatives in parliament, including the general secretary, Charles Duncan, M. P. As yet, however, it has only touched the fringe of agricultural labor, mostly in the West of England, near Cirencester, at Yeovil in Somerset, at Witney in Oxfordshire, and to a lesser extent in Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire. Nothing seems to have been done in Wessex. In no case can the membership be very large, and the agricultural laborer, owing to his indifferent pay and lack of cohesion, often drifts away from the body when he has joined it. This was notably the case in regard to the successful strike some time ago in the Market Drayton district of Shropshire.

The union is now, however, beginning to organize vigorously, and it is quite certain that, given the standard of intelligence among the ordinary agricultural laborer and his slowness to respond to outside influences, there can be no concerted movement throughout the country. What will happen will be that strikes will be organized near towns possessing organized artisans or in the vicinity of mines, and for two reasons. One is that the agricultural laborer is paid a higher wage in these districts than elsewhere to keep him from going into the factories or the mines; and the other is that he speedily begins to appreciate the advantages of organization when they are under his personal observation. The policy of the Workers' Union is apparently to penalize the farmer in all cases where reprisals are made against agricultural laborers who join the organization. This is an easy task because, owing to the demand for labor, an agricultural laborer who loses his place at the present time when there are in several parts of England strikes among unskilled laborers of all sorts there are plenty of agents acting on behalf of employers ready to engage them for better paid work in other parts of the country. The Workers' Union, therefore, has to pay no strike pay or out-of-work pay, and for this reason it realizes that the present moment of good trade is entirely propitious to its contemplated campaign.

It is announced that the Laborers' Union, which is campaigning in Lancashire, will next turn its attention to Somerset, presumably in the vicinity of the mines. This step probably depends upon the success of the Lancashire movement, since failure is certain to damp the enthusiasm of a class which at no time is very venturesome. In any case, the trades union officials who come in touch with agricultural laborers in general are perfectly well aware that any progress must be slow, and they at least do not entertain the view that there will be any sort of concerted movement on a large scale.

The unrest among the agricultural laborers not unnaturally has the approval of the Labor party, since the Lancashire programme is in accordance with the main principles of its recent report into their condition. They find it difficult, however, for the moment to lend the speakers which are required, since most of their number are now engaged in explaining at meetings all over the country the exact significance of the registrar's rule for the taking of the ballots under the Trades Union Amendment Act. Of these some fifty are being held, and in one or two places ballots are now beginning.

Only 500 Tickets for Ball.—Only 500 tickets will be issued for the Daughters of the Empire ball to the officers of the New Zealand on Thursday evening during carnival week. Double tickets cost $7.50 and single tickets $4 and members of the order are given preference. The secretary of the committee will be at the Alexandra Club from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. each day from now on to the day of the ball.

TEST PRESSURE OF SIDNEY WATER

Secretary Noble of the Island Underwriters' Association is seen testing the pressure of the new water supply of the Sidney Water and Power Company, turned on for the first time on Thursday. M. F. Hill, of the Canadian Pipe Company, which constructed the plant, is watching from the right. The lumber mill is in the background.

REALIZING SALES AND REACTIONS WITNESSED

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

New York, July 18.—The stock market showed the effects of realizing sales and slight reactions were witnessed. Marketwise there was not much news aside from the rather well-defined indications of a more cheerful feeling in Europe, which was reflected by a rather good continental demand for American securities.

PAST WEEK DENOTES BROADENING TENDENCY

Lack of Sellers at These Levels in Portlands and Glaciers

Victoria, July 19.—There was no especial feature of the local stock exchange session this morning and sales were negligible. There was no getting away from the firmness in Portland Canal and Glacier Creek and present quietness is more for a lack of sellers at these levels than reduced buying demand. Bidding for Coronation was poor to the extreme but offers at the 93c. level and thereabouts were not important and there is no pressure on the stock. This past week has not been so active as last in point of sales, but the broadening tendency has been more significant and has betokened a firmer growth that is affecting more of the list than has hitherto been the case. The action of such issues as Granby Consolidated which to-day made further gains, is indicative of the less harassed sentiment prevailing, if only temporary, in financial circles.

TONE OF WHEAT EASY FOLLOWED BY RALLY

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, July 19.—The tone of the market was easier early to-day, followed by a fair recovery. Favorable weather northwest checked the buying and traders were inclined to be bearish. Commission houses again picked up the wheat on the decline and the demand on the setbacks appears to be broadening a little. No special reports on black rust were received to-day, but the next few weeks will be the critical period for the crop and a crop scare is not unlikely. The export situation is healthy, foreign markets strong and the country less willing to sell wheat except on the sharp rallies.

Radium Springs of This Province Dealt With by Writer in "Lancet."

The following, which appeared in The Lancet of June 28, shows the interest which the radium springs of this province have aroused among medical men in England:

"In The Lancet of March 11, 1911, we published an analysis from our laboratory of samples of water taken from three springs situated in the Sinclair pass in British Columbia. These springs are grouped on the east bank of the Columbia river, about 60 miles south of Golden and 13 miles north of Windermere. They are not far (some 50 miles) from the well-known sulphur waters at Banff, and altogether the district seems well served with minerals waters, but those in the Sinclair pass would appear to be unique, inasmuch as recent investigation has shown that they are powerfully radio-active. The temperature of the waters is 115 degrees Fahrenheit, so that they are correctly described as thermal.

"In considering the results of our analysis we pointed out the probability of the waters showing, when examined at the source, marked radio-active properties. Curiously enough, the mineral ingredients proved to be similar in kind and amount to those found in the Bath waters, which are also thermal and radio-active. The important observation has now been made that, apart from the emanations, the Sinclair water must contain, according to well-known methods of deduction, radium itself. Subsequent examinations made at the laboratories of the McGill University, Montreal, showed that the Sinclair springs contain more radium and radium emanation than are present in the Bath waters. There should be a future for the application of these waters in therapeutics, since they show a radio-activity which is not equaled, as far as inquiry has gone, elsewhere.

"For a long time the waters have had a considerable local reputation in the treatment of gout, rheumatism and skin diseases, and practice has furnished evidence that they are effective in ministering to those diseases which are known to be benefitted by a course of radio-active treatment.

"It is believed that rich radium-bearing earths occur in the neighborhood, a belief which we hope is well founded, since the world's supply so far is all too short for wide and effective medical treatment. We learn that deposits of pitchblende (uranium ore) have been found, and the belief is that these will show a valuable return of radium. Any augmentation of the supply of radium will be welcomed, for without this increased supply the science of radiotherapeutics must necessarily advance slowly."

INSPECTED SAANICH LINE.

Directors of B. C. Electric Railway are Pleased With Progress and Optimistic of Future.

The two London directors of the British Columbia Electric Railway who have been in town for some days past, Messrs. Mars Harvey and Blundell Brown, left last night for Vancouver to inspect some special plant of the company at the Terminal City. They will return to Victoria almost immediately, and make this city their headquarters during the remainder of their stay in the west.

In the last two days the directors have, with Mr. Tripp, the local superintendent as cicerone, gone over the whole of the Saanich interurban line, inspected the plant at Brentwood Bay, and have thoroughly toured Victoria and its environs by automobile. With everything they have seen they have expressed extreme gratification, and both are optimistic about the future of the Saanich peninsula. Satisfaction also was expressed at the car tracks, the power plant and the whole system, and it is certain that the two directors will be able to give a very favorable account of the company's ramifications in British Columbia at the next board meeting they attend.

ENTERTAIN SERVICE MEN.

British Campaigners to Take Share in Welcome to New Zealand—Sikh Auxiliary Association.

The British Campaigners propose to entertain the active service men of the crew of H. M. S. New Zealand on their arrival next week. At the meeting on Thursday evening a committee was appointed to approach the reception committee in order to have a period set for the entertainment. This gathering will take the form of a social gathering one evening during the stay of the visitors. It is understood there are quite a number of men in the crew who are qualified for entertainment as having seen active service in various wars and punitive expeditions.

The proposal to form an auxiliary from among the Hindus in Victoria, including active service men who have done good work in the Indian frontier wars, was thoroughly canvassed at Thursday's meeting. In view of the political situation arising from the immigration question, the subject was laid over for future consideration.

There was a large attendance and eight new members were added to the roll of the association.

WHERE IS VISITOR?

Charles G. Gates Was Expected to Reach City After Brief Stay in Vancouver.

Where is Charles G. Gates, the world-famed oil magnate and sensational plunger? Yesterday he was in Vancouver; to-day he was supposed to have been in Victoria, leaving behind him his usual trail of gold pieces.

Breathless curiosity was the order this morning as to the whereabouts of this modern Croesus, and many and various were the questions asked. How was it this prize package was allowed to leave Vancouver? Does Mayor Morley know that he is around? Have the carnival committee seen him, or are they holding him somewhere for a ten-thousand-dollar subscription.

He spent only twenty-four hours in Vancouver, but several well-informed people say that he would not get off so easily in Victoria. Many people with things to sell, swap and exchange are keeping a sharp lookout for this American Midas, whose trail of gold rivals the sunset. It is even stated in some quarters that he is the eastern philanthropist who was said to have been interested in buying the Victoria ball club, a proceeding which would be right in accordance with the old Gates' faculty of spending money recklessly.

For this Charles G. Gates is the son of that "John W." of the same ilk who came up to Wall Street from the south some years ago and made himself a multimillionaire in the time that most men take to eat their lunch. He was known as "Bet-you-a-million Gates" because of his faculty of betting someone a million dollars before breakfast and then forgetting all about it. The son is a chip of the old block, and has even a more pronounced spending faculty than had his father, who died in Paris two years ago. His father alarmed Wall Street, and provided even that rendezvous of sensations with a few which it had never experienced before. The son does his main best to keep up the sensational atmosphere, and so far he has managed to do so with great success.

To those who suffer from cramp in the leg at night the following hint may be useful. When the cramp comes on take a good, strong string—a long garter will do—wind it round the leg over the place that is affected, then take an end in each hand and give it a sharp pull—one that will hurt a little. Instantly the cramp will depart, and the sufferer can return to bed assured it will not come on again that night.

Take a Dose of Nature's Medicine

Throw away your half-filled bottles of dope and poison, your patent nostrums and doctors' concoctions. You know they haven't done you any good and that your stomach is all upset as the result of filling it with these poisons. You know they have weakened your nerves and taken the life out of your blood.

Get back to nature. Consider how she cures and gives her assistance. Nature will cure you if she has the power. This power is Electricity. That's because Electricity builds up—supplies new life and energy to the body. Drugs destroy, tear down, because they contain poison. Of course, poison will ease pain. Why? Because it paralyzes the nerves. If you poison your nerves with drugs you can't feel the pain until the stupor wears off. Then the pain comes back, and you have to repeat the dose until Nature removes the cause.

If you have a pain in your back you can stop it for a few hours by stupefying the nerves with poisonous drugs. But to cure that pain you have got to remove the cause. That pain is something due to kidney trouble. So, can't you see that to remove the cause you must restore the kidneys to a healthy condition?

The reason the kidneys, liver, stomach or other organs become weak or debilitated is because they lack electricity. This must be restored, either artificially or by Nature, before they can do their work properly.

Weakness in men is caused by an exhaustion of electricity. Get back that force, and you will have your strength.

Our Electro-Vigor pours a stream of electric life into your veins while you sleep, and they conduct the force to every organ and tissue of your body, giving health and strength to every part.

Electro-Vigor is a dry cell battery, which you wear while you sleep and gives you a continuous current of electricity. You never have to charge it, for it makes its own power. It does not burn or blister and never shocks the nerves. The only sensation is a soothing glow. We have perfected Electro-Vigor so that it conveys a stream of electric life direct to the part that is ailing, so that the great force of current goes where it is needed, and none is wasted.

Mr. T. C. Johnson, Box 2336, North Vancouver, says: "I have been using the Electro-Vigor for about 2 months. I was troubled with lumbago for a number of years, have paid doctors much money and experimented with patent medicines without results. I must say in the short time I have used Electro-Vigor it has done wonders for me, and I hope soon to be able to report a cure."

Mr. J. T. Woolacott, 2239 Oxford street, Vancouver, B. C., says: "You ask me in your recent letter if I am cured. Well, I will tell you straight: I am cured. I never felt better in all my life. I have stopped using the appliance but will keep it around the house in case something ever happens to me again.

"I am certainly feeling fine and am getting so strong I don't know what to do with myself. Electro-Vigor is the only system."

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

Committees Busy Setting New Home on Ontario Street in Order

That both the ladies and gentlemen who are interested in the long-talked of Seamen's Institute are quite sincere in their intentions to provide a sailors' home and recreation rooms in the city is easily to be seen by the direct manner in which they have set about placing in order the house and grounds at 104 Ontario street which were recently taken over by the men's committee for the purpose of commencing the work in some practical form.

Nearly all Victoria has realized that the work would be perhaps many more months in abeyance if left over until sufficient funds were on hand to complete the new Connaught Institute, of which the foundation stone was laid nearly a year ago by H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught. So the less ambitious undertaking may at least deserve praise as answering to the immediate requirements of the work, and, at the same time, will give the promoters an opportunity of judging by the experiment something of the nature and extent of the work which they may expect to have to carry on here.

The building is at the corner of Ontario and St. Lawrence streets, just at the point where the outer wharf car turns, and is within two minutes' walk of the docks at that point. Being on the carline residents at the home can easily reach the city also. The house stands in the middle of three-quarters of an acre of orchard and lawn. Viewed in the present weather, one of the greatest charms of the home lies in these spacious gardens, with the shady old-fashioned trees and hedges, and the peach trees on the sunny side of the house with their ripening fruit. Surrounded with a yew hedge, with a neat box border at the side of the paths, a big shrub of fragrant "Old Man's Love" at the gate, and rose bushes at the windows, the first glimpse of the exterior is invitingly home-like. From the verandas, where many a long pipe will be enjoyed of an evening, are magnificent views of the Olympics, the Sooke Hills, and incoming vessels, while through a nearby clump of fir trees may be seen the waters of the inner harbor and their frontage.

Wright Hill, the energetic secretary of the Seamen's Institute, has taken up his residence at the home to-day, and will make a point of letting all the seamen coming ashore at Victoria know that they will be given a hearty welcome whenever they wish to visit the home and make use of its rooms.

These are very neatly and simply furnished through the enterprise of the ladies' committee, and during the past week Mesdames Home, McDiarmid, Parker Hibben and Donald have been busy plying scrubbing brush and broom, hammer and paint brush, to set the place in order, while the other members of the ladies' guild have been assisting in other ways, some by sending furniture and others by doing the necessary purchases of the supplies, etc.

The downstairs part of the house contains three large rooms, to be used as dining-room, kitchen and reading-room. Magazines and newspapers will be contributed for the last by various members of the two committees, and the room is being fitted with writing table and book-shelves as well. The dining-room will probably not be much in demand just at the beginning, although time will show just what the work will call for in this respect. The kitchen is one of the largest rooms in the house, and off it open the scullery and bath-room, which, in turn, open out into the garden.

The four upstair rooms have an even better outlook than the downstairs, or two, like the dining and reading-rooms, having fireplaces, which will give forth a friendly glow on the long winter nights when the wind is whipping in across the Straits. Just for the present only two or the rooms are being furnished by the ladies as bedrooms, one of which will be occupied, has been purchased out of the fund collected during the past year by the Connaught (ladies') Guild for furniture in the proposed new institute, and, when the time comes to remove to the larger building, will be transferred there.

The work will not stop with the opening of the home, which is being completely repainted on the outside, and will bear in big white letters over the entrance the name, "Seamen's Institute." It is intended that some form of entertainment will be arranged from time to time, although just what form these events will take has not yet been considered owing to the more immediate problems which have absorbed the time of the committee up to the present. One of the principal drawbacks to plans in this connection is the lack of space, as the two principal rooms on the main floor do not open into each other. The building has been rented for a year only, and it is hoped by the committee that long before the end of the twelve months the institute will have proved its ability to be self-supporting, and will also have demonstrated the need for the work in a city which prides itself on occupying such a leading place among the seaports of the Pacific coast.

LIBERAL-REFORM CLUB

Further Steps Taken Towards Organization of New Political-Social Body.

Another meeting of the members of the Liberal-Reform Club was held in the Liberal rooms, Cormorant street, last evening, when considerable work was done in the way of organization. G. N. Mowat occupied the chair and there were about one hundred present.

A draft of the constitution of the club was laid before the meeting by the committee that has been dealing with that matter, and this was discussed at some length. It will come up for adoption at the first general meeting of the new club, which will be held on the first Thursday in September, the fourth.

Several premises are in view as quarters for the club, and action in regard to this matter will be taken at an early date. Meanwhile members are being enrolled, and before the summer closes the club is expected to be in complete working order. It will be devoted to fostering the social side of the party's interests in the district of Victoria, in which the provincial electoral districts of the city, Esquimalt, Saanich, The Islands and Cowichan are included.

There will be reading, smoking and writing rooms, a billiard room, and a large hall for public meetings. It is intended that throughout the year there will be frequent meetings of a social nature, with addresses on political matters by prominent speakers and leaders of the party, and every effort will be made by the management committee to provide for the comfort of the members.

VISITORS COMMENT ON UNTIDY SCENES

Consider Beauty of City Marred by Growth of Weeds, and Presence of Rubbish

This is a plain, unvarnished tale of how others see us.

They were a Virginian couple, stopping over in Victoria for a few hours in the course of a tour of the coast cities, people of culture and refinement and evidently much travelled. While in a business place they were expressing their views of the city to a small group of citizens, among whom was a Times man. They had been drawn to make a call at Victoria by the advertising of the city abroad, and they agreed that it was certainly a very beautiful place. At the same time they had some kindly criticism for the city and the citizens.

"You have a beautiful city here if it was kept beautiful," said the gentleman in the intonation of the educated Southerner that is so charming. "But you have so many eyesores, often adjoining the most lovely spots in your city, that the effect is greatly spoiled. Living here you may have become so accustomed to them that you have grown tolerant, but do not mistake it, these things are very noticeable to your visitors. We do not come here to see such defects, but if any of you recall the visits you have paid to other places you will find that there stands out as clearly as the memories of the beauties you have seen glaring spots that have disfigured the scene."

The visitors were asked for some instances, and both showed that they were keen observers, and that their recollection was good.

"To begin with," said the gentleman, "as we got off the steamer we admired the legislative buildings, but found that beside them, across from the wharf, was an untidy corner where there had evidently been a house at one time. This was covered with weeds, such as thistles and burdocks, which are cut down in every city that I know of as noxious weeds. Behind this were some old wooden sheds of some sort. Then we walked over to the Empress hotel, a very fine building, but on an adjoining corner were the remnants of an old platform in front of a private dwelling, and at the back of the hotel there was an engine at work in what appeared to be a quarry. Whatever it was it was in a most untidy condition for such a prominent site. All these things, remember, are in the direct line of vision of everyone coming from the steamers.

"Coming up Government street we noticed a vacant lot near the post office, like a missing tooth, scattered about which was a lot of broken boxes and general debris. Further on was what we were given to understand was the scene of a fire three years ago. That seems incredible. How can your citizens allow a site like that to remain in that condition for so long! Even if the owners find good reason to delay rebuilding why is it permitted to remain in such an untidy state?

"In the course of a drive about the city we went up a street leading from the city hall and gradually widening out. The chauffeur told us that the city owns the centre of the road at its upper end. If that is so it is strange that the municipal authorities of a city which has such claims to be a beauty spot should allow it to lie in the condition it is, with old junk half hidden by weeds, thistles and docks. Somewhere about the same neighborhood there is a railway yard on the open street which we noticed to be very badly kept."

"Your gardens are lovely," chimed in the lady, "but it detracts from their effect on the eye and mind of a visitor to see in some cases as abundant a crop of weeds inthe next lot, waving high in the air. Even on your best residence streets we saw this, and not only weeds but heaps of rubbish dumped down in vacant lots, spoiling the beauty. Right across from one of the large churches down town we noticed carts and refuse heaps in an open lot. The boulevards are very fine in parts, but there is a lack of uniformity in the manner of caring for them. It looked to me as if some of them were laid on insufficient earth and had no nourishment for the roots. They were quite brown and there were many bare spots. It is too bad that you should have these unkempt and untidy patches to mar the entirely good impression that people would otherwise carry away with them from this city. As my husband says, these things cannot help but stick in your remembrance of a place, try as you may to forget them."

It may be said that these visitors are not the only ones who have commented on the thistles and other noxious weeds that are to be seen in the heart of the city, in spite of the provisions of by-law No. 728, which enacts that "no owner, lessee, tenant, occupier or agent of any owner shall suffer or permit any thistle, burdock or other noxious weed to grow or be upon any land or premises within the corporation owned or occupied by or under his control."

OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY.

Members of Grace English Lutheran Church Surprise Rev. and Mrs. Westheim.

A pleasant surprise was given Rev. and Mrs. Westheim last Friday evening by members and friends of Grace English Lutheran church, it being the first anniversary of the arrival of the pastor and his family in Victoria. The social hall of the church was beautifully decorated in flowers and green and the tables were under the weight of delicacies. The people's warden, L. J. Kaiser, acted as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by N. O. Jepsen, Captain J. F. Anderson, Rev. Westheim and others. Thankfulness for the success of the past year and hopefulness for the future were the keynotes of the speeches.

Rev. Westheim was presented with a large purse well filled.

Musical numbers were rendered by Miss Eva McDougall, Miss Grace Mead and Mr. Omet.

MUST CONSIDER COST

Court of Revision Will Look Into Increased Expense of Dundas Street Work.

One feature of the Dundas street local improvement case which has not yet been brought before the court of revision but which presents a matter which will have to be considered by the court at a subsequent session, is that the cost of the work as let by contract was to have been about $12,000, whereas the actual cost of work has been stated on the assessment notice at $16,000.

When the court of revision left the application of F. A. McDiarmid at Wednesday's sitting the only point raised had been the power of assessing owners on a block which had not been improved according to the by-law, although the work done had provided an outlet to their property. Now it will be argued that the city council, as trustees for the owners, having let a contract for the work to the Mineral Rubber Company at $12,000, the engineering department had no power to do the work itself, at 50 per cent. increase in cost. This work, however, was done in the spring of 1912 without, it is alleged, the approval of the city council.

Apart from this by-law, it will now be possible for the necessary by-laws to be put through under the local improvement act of this year, for assessments to be levied, and also for the issue to be consolidated for the purpose of placing the stock on the market.

The Prompt Clean and perfectly cooked meals at The Kaiserhof are incomparable.

If You Saw a Gold Coin Alone on the Street and Crying for an Owner, You'd Adopt It, Wouldn't You

There are not many of that kind found. Usually it isn't very difficult to find the owner, but there are pockets full of gold coin for you in what we are offering every day. Remember, now is the time to buy in Victoria, for the city, in common with all Western Canada, is only taking breath preparatory to a greater spurt than ever.
